Marines, Tanks In Combat Areas

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. marines and the U.S. Army's reinforcing 2nd Division troops rolled to night into the combat area with Pershing tanks to join the intensifying battle for southeast Korea.

They were assigned to positions supporting deployed U.S. troops who had withdrawn on some fronts up to 18 miles in three days for their big stand on shortened lines.

The lines were in the general area of the winding Nakdong River, which runs in a southerly direction, flowing into the sea west of the supply port of Pusan. The defense positions were deliberately chosen by U.S. commanders for their climactic holding action.

(Communist spearheads Thursday night were reported only eight miles west of Masan, coast town on the road to Pusan, and in a more northerly sector only 12 miles from Taegu, provisional south Korean capital, Reuters reported.)

On the newly-consolidated front U.S. and South Korean forces face the Communist armies on virtually equal terms in division strength, said Leif Erickson, Associated Press correspondent at U.S. 8th Army headquarters in Korea. There were five U.S. divisions and five South Korean divisions facing an estimated nine to 10 North Korean divisions.

Erickson said, however, the United Nations units still lack enough power to embark on any counter-offensive. He said there will soon be more carrier-based planes to help break up the long supply lines the Communists now must maintain.

Pulled Back To U.S. Lines

A build-up of enemy forces on the holding front near Chinju was observed by a U.S. 24th Infantry tank reconnaissance force. This force almost thrust back into Chinju before pulling back to American lines in the hills 40 miles west of Pusan.

Don Whitehead, an A.P. correspondent, reported from the front that tank-probing forces fought into rear elements of Communists.

It was the deepest penetration made yet by a U.S. force into the Red lines and surprised the enemy in a sharp road battle.

The task force ran through machine-gun fire on the way out but brought back captured enemy documents, maps and Russian-made equipment. The loot was considered important by intelligence, Whitehead reported.

Four Sherman tanks and four armored cars were abandoned by the Americans as they withdrew to road positions four miles southwest of Chunjam, about 40 miles west of Pusan.

The Americans then fanned out to the north and south and fought back to the main U.S. defensive position near Wonsung village, about 10 miles northeast of Chinju.

An Associated Press correspondent quoted Maj.-Gen. John E. Church, new U.S. 24th Division commander, as saying the daring tank foray was fortunately timed. "Our attack stopped them from getting under way," Church said.

Erickson said the big withdrawal of Allied troops in the west and north put the defenders on a line of their choice, the Nakdong River.

The fall back, he said, disen-

Australia Denies Subs Off Its Coast

Navy Minister Says Reports Unfounded

CANBERRA (AP)—Navy Minister Josiah Francis today "emphatically denied" reports that foreign submarines had been sighted off the Australian coast.

The Sydney Sun published such a report, attributed to "official" sources, and said it was possible the submarines were Russian.

A statement from Francis said New Guinea civilians early in May reported twice they had sighted what they thought were submarines, "but after investigation the claim was not confirmed."

Reports of the sighting of an unidentified submarine also cropped up in New Zealand. The naval board at Wellington said it was investigating reports that a sub had been seen off New Zealand's west coast.

RUSSIANS' VIEW

MOSCOW (CP)—The New Times today ridicules Canadian authorities for spreading rumors on what it calls alleged Russian submarines off the Canadian coast.

The weekly newspaper said "submarines should be sought not in the ocean but in the inlets of Canadian newspaper."

The New Times says Canadian authorities needed "Soviet submarines" in order to distract the attention of the Canadian public from the "distasteful" armaments race into which the government was forcing the country.

Polish Vessel To Be Examined At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The Polish liner Batory may be the first vessel to be examined here under new atomic security regulations.

The Batory is due Saturday, and it is expected she will be boarded in lower New York by federal agents for the "Trojan ship" search announced recently for all ships from Iron Curtain ports.

Harry M. Durning, collector of the port, declined to comment, saying no decision on the Polish liner's reception will be made until late Friday.

Last week Durning announced that, under instructions from Washington, all ships from Russia and satellite countries will receive thorough examination before they reached the upper bay.

'Peace' Meeting Called To Avert Building Strike

The B.C. Labor Relations Board was endeavoring to arrange a meeting today between the bargaining committees of the local carpenters' union and the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange.

Spokesmen for both sides said this morning they were willing and anxious to attend such a meeting in an endeavor to settle the long, involved wage dispute in which they have been engaged since early in the year.

A meeting at this time will doubtless decide definitely the future of the carpenter-contractor squabble. There will, either be complete rift and a resulting tie-up of major construction work here.

Chance for a settlement appeared reasonably good today. In the meantime, an application by striking carpenters of the G. H. Wheaton firm to the Labor Relations Board, requesting another strike vote, was being held in abeyance.

It was learned the application was not authorized by the carpenters' union. As the union is certified as the only bargaining agency for the Wheaton carpenters, it is understood the application by the men on their own will not likely be recognized by the board.

Soviet Boycotts U.N. Committee

LAKE SUCCESS (UP)—Russia failed to assume the chairmanship of the United Nations military staff committee today, indicating the Kremlin has decided to continue a partial boycott of the world organization.

Soviet Maj.-Gen. Ivan A. Skilarev was scheduled to take over the chairmanship of the military committee for August under the monthly rotation system. Col. M. I. Maximov of the Soviet air force was slated to become the principal secretary.

But neither showed up as the committee met in secret at the U.N.'s New York office in a building at the site of the new headquarters in Manhattan.

This was taken as an indication that Premier Stalin and his Politburo have decided the Soviet boycott of the U.N. is to be ended.

Coast Vessels' Crews Included In Strike Vote

Follows Rejection Of Board Award

Engine room and deck crews aboard C.P.R., B.C. Coast Service ships are included in strike ballots which have gone out to 1,000 unlicensed personnel on coastal vessels operated by the C.P.R., C.N.R. and Union Steamships Ltd.

The action follows rejection by the union of a conciliation report.

Stewards on Union Steamships' vessels also are affected.

NO COMPLETE HALT

Though a strike would cripple travel to the island, it would not halt it entirely. The Black Ball Line's Chinook, operating between Victoria, Seattle, and Port Angeles and two summer ferries in service between Sidney and Anacortes would still be in service.

A British United Press report said Dick Deely, Vancouver agent for the Seafarers' International Union, Canadian district, had stated his union had "rejected a conciliation report and results of the strike vote will be known in a few days."

The S.I.U. sought nine major contract changes, including a $30-a-month wage boost and union security.

A C.P.R. spokesman here said when asked if a strike definitely would tie up the company's ships: "Not necessarily—we do not know yet. I am unable to answer that at present."

Foreign Ministers Meet On European Assembly Agenda

STRASBOURG, France (AP)—Foreign ministers—or their deputies—from 13 countries met here today to set the stage for the European Consultative Assembly's second session.

They will draft the agenda for the unofficial four-week European parliament, which opens next Monday.

The ministers, under chairmanship of Sean MacBride of the Republic of Ireland, will write the keynote message listing topics to be discussed in the session. Recommendations made by the assembly are returned to the foreign ministers for transmission to member governments.

France's revolutionary proposal for a pool of western Europe's coal and steel production—the Schuman Plan—is sure of a place on the assembly's order of business.

INDEX FOR JUNE OUT TOMORROW

Increase In Rents Disclosed In Latest Cost-Of-Living Figures

OTTAWA (CP)—At least one segment of the cost-of-living index, now, touching unparalleled heights, will show a new gain tomorrow—rents.

Bureau of Statistics officials have completed their June survey on rents and have disclosed that the movement is up. How much up won't be known until official figures are issued at 3 p.m. E.D.T. tomorrow.

The general index, pushed up mainly by climbing meat prices, increased 1.4 points during May to a peak of 165.4. This compared with 160.5 a year ago and 164.0 during April, 1950. The index is calculated on the basis that prices in the 1935-39 period equalled 100.

During May, rising meat prices sent the foods sub-group from 204.6 to 209.0. Fresh pork prices went up 6.3 cents a pound, beef prices 3.2 cents, lamb 4.4 cents and Veal 1.9 cents.

The most price range continued to range high during June, mainly because of the big demand for beef in the United States.

During May, increases in British Columbia telephone rates and gas prices advanced the home furnishings and services sub-index from 166.4 to 166.9.

The fuel and light group slipped slightly from its peak of

Cabinet Expected To Settle Last Details

OTTAWA (CP)—Cabinet meets again today amid indications its ministers now are broadly agreed that Canada should provide a force of ground troops for service with the United Nations' forces in Korea.

There is no sign that any hard and fast conclusion was reached at Wednesday's four-hour meeting, nor is it certain that any official statement will be made at the end of its sequel today.

However, a volunteer force that would run to at least 1,000 men now appears to be likely, although details would have to be worked out.

The cabinet is meeting today at 3 p.m. E.D.T., when, it is expected, final details of the principle of sending ground troops to Korea will be completed.

Acceptance of this principle means a special session of Parliament, Prime Minister St. Laurent, in his late-June pre-prorogation statement, indicated that any dispatch of combat strength beyond destroyers would have to have Parliament's approval.

The House normally would not reconvene until January but announcement of a decision to send ground troops would probably contain a statement that Parliament will be recalled several months prior to that, possibly around October.

Canada's contribution to date includes three destroyers and a squadron of eight R.C.A.F. transport planes. The destroyers have entered Korean waters ready for action. The planes are being used on a trans-Pacific shuttle service to Japan.

One of the headaches about a volunteer force is the uncertainty of how many Canadians would

PARLIAMENT TO BE CALLED

OTTAWA (UP)—Parliament will be called into session in about six weeks, it was learned today from an authoritative source.

The members will be asked to approve not just additional Korean war measures, such as the sending of ground troops, but rather a program of vastly stepped-up military preparedness—a program gauged to a world situation which, in the opinion of the cabinet, has deteriorated into such seriousness that its threat and its challenge can no longer be ignored.

enlist for one. The best criterion to date is the army's announcement that more than 700 men have entered recruiting offices and said they would like to serve in Korea but not in the regular army. They were turned away.

Training, Here And In Japan

There are roughly 800 men in a battalion of infantry.

It is expected that regular army recruiting offices would be used, that the force would get a lot of its training in Canada and more advanced training in Japan and that wartime admission standards—rather than the tough peacetime ones—would apply.

The force would probably emerge as a mixture of war veterans and young men too young for the last war, possibly buttressed with officers, and non-commissioned officers from the regular army.

Its formation would be based on the twin conclusions that the Korean war probably is going to last for months and that a long build-up for a counter-offensive in prospect whether the Americans hold to their tiny share of Korea or not.

It is doubtful that the force, once created, would leave Canada for months, possibly not before the end of the year. It would have to be fitted into some higher formation, Prime Minister Menzies of Australia, due here Monday, has talked of a Commonwealth division now that Britain, Australia and New Zealand have all offered troops.

U.K. Seeking Volunteers For Korea

LONDON (AP)—The War Office appealed today for volunteers to serve a special short term of 18 months in the regular army. Previously—the shortest period permitted—was for five years.

"It is intended that volunteers shall serve in the Korean area, although this must to some extent depend on events," the announcement said.

Britain has promised to send Korea ground forces of infantry, artillery, tanks and engineers "as quickly as possible." Strength of the contemplated force is expected to be about 5,000 men.

The War Office said the volunteers must have at least 18 months of army experience prior to Jan. 1, 1946, and be less than 30 years of age.

Meanwhile, Lewis Douglas, U.S. ambassador to Britain, had his second talk with Prime Minister Attlee in less than 24 hours.

There was no official disclosure of the subject matter. The London press guessed that the conferences concern an early announcement of plans by Britain sharply to step up its defence spending.

Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell already has told the House of Commons that Britain will spend £100,000,000 ($310,000,000) during the next few months for urgently-needed equipment.

France Debates On Token Battalions

PARIS (AP)—French government leaders are debating sending a "token battalion" of troops to fight under the United Nations flag in Korea, a spokesman said today.

French sources said the main obstacle to dispatching Frenchmen to Korea is France's "own dire need of military strength in Asia."

France has been fighting a guerrilla war for five years against Communist-led troops in Indo-China, and has some 140,000 troops stationed there.

Newsmen Halt For Boy Scout Deed

On way to assignment Wednesday afternoon, two Times reporters and photographer spotted baby robin in hot sunshine on Monterey Avenue boulevard, 15 feet below nest from which it had fallen. Tiny bird was viewed with interest (top) by, left to right, Barry and Murray Johnston, 1617 Monterey Avenue, and Bobby Chilton, 1563 Monterey Avenue, before Bob Hutchison was boosted up tree by fellow-reporter Jim McKeachie, who hands sparsely-feathered, large-beaked robin to him (bottom). Hutchison returned bird to nest far out on limb; found three other young robins there.

DARING ADVENTURE

U.S. Battalion Fights Behind Enemy Lines

By DON WHITEHEAD

AN ADVANCED U.S. COMMAND POST, Korea (AP)—A U.S. battalion fought its way 20 miles behind the enemy lines, battled out again and saved a regimental command post from destruction in a savage struggle today.

There hasn't been anything quite like this daring adventure in all the Korean war. The officers called it "a reconnaissance in force" and it proved for the high command:

1. That the enemy line can be breached by a hard-hitting tank force.
2. That the enemy is building up strong forces around Chinju for the drive eastward toward Masan and Pusan, 30 air-line miles farther east.

The battalion made a 36-hour forced march south to reach the jumping off place for the dash toward Chinju. After a brief rest, the push began early Wednesday.

The battalion had five Sherman tanks, a battery of artillery, a platoon of heavy mortars and well armed infantry.

The tank force was under enemy machine-gun and sniper fire all the way. The Americans rode the tanks and jeeps and trucks, spraying the enemy with fire as they drove ahead.

As the Americans passed, the enemy closed in behind them on the road leading to Chinju. But the tank force blazed its way deeper and deeper into enemy country.

Then the group reached the mountain passes just east of Chinju and smashed into enemy forces, believed to be the main Red reserve building up for a major offensive.

Fire poured down on the Americans from the hills. And the Americans left the column and went into the hills after the Reds.

The leading tanks rounded a bend in the road and ran head-on into three Russian-made 70-mm. anti-tank guns.

The guns knocked holes in the armor of two Shermans and either killed or wounded all of the gun crews. The Red guns were knocked out by American infantry men who closed in on the gun crews.

The task force fought its way back, having captured enemy documents, maps and Russian-made equipment. Intelligence officers said these were important finds.

The Americans brought all the wounded and dead back with them.

Price-Wage Controls Voted By U.S. House

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House ignored President Truman's wishes today and voted tentatively to put price-wage controls into effect automatically if prices jump 5 per cent above the June 15 cost of living index.

The House acted only a few hours after Mr. Truman had again asked Congress not to tie his hands in any wage-price-rationing control program it might adopt.

The House adopted version would give the President no say in the matter of invoking price-wage controls.

The "automatic" clause was written into the control bill by voice vote after the House had voted, 58 to 42, against imposing wage-price controls immediately.

DELAY REJECTED

The House also rejected by voice vote a proposal to delay wage controls until it acts to control prices.

The automatic proposal was sponsored by Rep. Clinton D. McKinnon, (D-Cal.). It was similar to one considered by the Senate banking committee Wednesday at the suggestion of Senator J. William Fulbright, (D-Ark.).

The status of the legislation in the House was such that the vote could be considered later.

McKinnon's amendment would take the authority for imposing price and wage controls out of the hands of the President. They would go into effect automatically if the cost of living increased by 5 per cent, as computed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

No opposition was expressed to McKinnon's proposal. He told the House it would stabilize the dollar "at close to the present level."

Korea Urged For All Fit Canada Troops

CALGARY (CP)—A telegram urging that "all the Canadian troops fit for immediate service" be offered for use in Korea was sent to the Minister of National Defence, Hon. Brooke Claxton, today by the directors of the Alberta United Services Institute, Calgary.

The message, which was signed by the president of the institute, Lt. Col. J. H. R. Thomson, M.B.E., E.D., declared that Canada's failure to respond to the United Nations call for ground forces has "placed our nation's good name in jeopardy."

It said that Canadian assistance in the form of ground troops "is imperative even if it involves some risk to the defence of the Canadian mainland."

The wire was dispatched as the federal cabinet was about to resume its regular meeting, adjourned from Wednesday.

U.N. Troops Get Set For Showdown

Near Equal Power For First Time

TOKYO (Friday) (AP)—Allied troops, for the first time approaching but still inferior to the 10-division strength of the Red invaders, got set today for the showdown fight for South Korea with big Pershing tanks.

Elements of two fresh U.S. divisions—the 1st Marines and the army's 2nd Infantry—joined three other American and five South Korean divisions along the shrinking front.

Front line predictions were the marines and 2nd Infantry troops would be in battle by nightfall.

The lines stretched from the general south coast area of Chinju northward along the winding banks of the Nakdong River. The Allied troops had quietly withdrawn from former positions as much as 18 miles during a three-day period.

Gen. MacArthur public information officer said the usual early-morning Korean war release will not be issued today because "there has been no change in the situation."

RED SPEARHEADS

(Communist spearheads Thursday night were reported only eight miles west of Masan, coast town on the road to Pusan, and in a more northerly sector only 12 miles from Taegu, provisional south Korean capital, Reuters reported.)

On the newly-consolidated front U.S. and South Korean forces face the Communist armies on virtually equal terms in division strength, said Leif Erickson, Associated Press correspondent at U.S. 8th Army headquarters in Korea. There were five U.S. divisions and five South Korean divisions facing an estimated nine to 10 North Korean divisions.

Erickson said, however, the United Nations units still lack enough power to embark on any real counter-offensive. He said there will soon be more carrier-based planes to help break up the long supply lines the Communists now must maintain.

ENEMY BUILD-UP

A build-up of enemy forces on the holding front near Chinju was observed by a U.S. 24th Infantry tank reconnaissance force. This force almost thrust back into Chinju before pulling back to American lines in the hills 40 miles west of Pusan.

Don Whitehead, an A.P. correspondent, reported from the front that tank-probing forces fought into rear elements of Communists.

The tank force ran through machine-gun fire on the way out but brought back captured enemy documents, maps and Russian-made equipment. The loot was considered important by intelligence, Whitehead reported.

TANKS, CARS ABANDONED

Four Sherman tanks and four armored cars were abandoned by the Americans as they withdrew to road positions four miles southwest of Chunjam, about 40 miles west of Pusan.

The Americans then fanned out to the north and south and fought back to the main U.S. defensive position near Wonsung village, about 10 miles northeast of Chinju.

An Associated Press correspondent quoted Maj. Gen. John E. Church, new U.S. 24th Division commander, as saying the daring tank foray was fortunately timed. "Our attack stopped them from getting under way," Church said.

SAD NEWS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE—7-CENT BAR EXPECTED BACK

Increases in wholesale chocolate and cocoa bean prices here may mean the return of the seven-cent chocolate bar.

Local manufacturers of chocolate and sugar products say they are taking the loss at the present time, but that price jumps are just around the corner.

One company Tuesday announced price increases on its boxed chocolates ranging from 15 to 25 cents. An official said chocolate bar prices would be increased two cents "before the hot weather is over."

CARPENTERS DISPUTE SHOWDOWN TODAY

Two Sides Meet With Labor Board Blessing Under Threat Of General Walkout Friday

The long, drawn-out, complicated conflict between Victoria carpenters and contractors came to a showdown today.

Bargaining committees of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Victoria Building Industries Exchange went into a final session at the Labor Relations Board office at 2 this afternoon "to have things out."

There are only two possible results of the meeting.

Either the two committees will come to terms and finalize a 1950 work contract immediately or there will be complete disagreement and a general strike by carpenters Friday.

Announcement of union strike plans was made by union president Ernest Oliver, who said all carpenters would be called off work at 8 Friday morning unless agreement is reached before that time.

Legal rights of the union to call a general strike are open to question. Following a split vote by carpenters in a government strike vote of 16 employer groups last week, the Labor Relations Board ruled that only eight contractor groups could legally strike.

While many issues have been brought into the dispute by both sides, the main point of contention concerns wages.

The carpenters want $1.68 an hour. The contractors have said they will pay $1.63 and no more. Last suggestion by the union was that the rate should be set at $1.63 from now until December 1, and then boosted to $1.68, to be in effect until April 1. The builders' exchange did not reply to this proposal.

While the two bargaining committees have shown hostile feelings toward one another in recent days, officials on both sides were hopeful some agreement could be reached between them before the end of the day.

Both the carpenters' union and the builders' exchange have vested full authority with their committees to settle the dispute if they find acceptable terms.

HULL, Que. (AP)—Released after an eight-month sentence for theft, Pauline Aubin, 18, of Ottawa, paid a visit to Governor Jacques Moussette of the Hull jail and went away $70 richer. Sentenced by Judge Victor Chabot for stealing the $70, Miss Aubin went back to penitentiary today for a two-year term.

The four men were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Decatur.

U.S. Army Plane Crashes, Burns

DECATUR, Ill. (UP)—An airplane identified by police as "a large army plane" crashed and burned at Decatur municipal airport today. Fire equipment was rushed to the airport.

The plane was a transport from Chanute Field carrying supplies on the north-south runway. Four men, believed to be the only ones aboard, were pulled out of the plane according to witnesses.

The plane still was burning an hour later, and army officials were checking the possibility that there might have been someone else aboard.

The four men were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Decatur.

Special Session Of Parliament Forecast

By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—The cabinet will call a special session of Parliament in six weeks to approve the sending of ground troops to Korea, an authoritative source said today.

Meeting to draw up a vast program of war preparedness, the spokesman said the cabinet was facing a world situation which has deteriorated into such seriousness that its threat cannot be ignored any longer.

He said an announcement of the plans may not be made until next Wednesday's cabinet meeting, when all ministers will be on hand.

The program, it is said, will lay down the blueprints for placing the nation on a full war economy.

It will include a complete panoply of wartime controls and a taxation program to finance measures that will dwarf last session's record peacetime defence appropriation of $425,000,000.

The timing of the calling of parliament is being governed by arrangements already entered into for holding the long-scheduled Dominion-provincial conference.

The central committee of attorneys-general of the provinces and the Dominion will meet Aug. 21. The full conference will meet after they have completed a draft of fiscal and constitutional proposals to be considered. It is expected the conference will be completed by mid-September. Parliament will convene immediately thereafter.

This schedule could be altered by any sudden change for the worse in the world situation. Any further deterioration, cabinet sources say, would compel the cancellation of the Dominion-provincial conference—a step which the government is reluctant to take.

Ottawa Tension Steadily Rises

The sudden atmosphere of dramatic tension and suspense which swept over cabinet circles during the past week-end advertised to the capital that the meeting of the ministry was a big one.

But even if that clue had been missing, the course followed by the meeting would have told all close observers that grave matters were under discussion and extraordinary decisions being matured.

This is what happened:

The cabinet meeting was attended by 14 ministers, including the Prime Minister. The absentees included Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner in western Canada, Public Works Minister Alphonse Fournier, in Geneva, State Secretary F. G. Bradley in Newfoundland, and Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, at his Montreal home after a visit to Washington. Abbott arrived in Ottawa today.

The meeting was adjourned after four hours of discussion in order that the absentees might be apprised by telephone of the gist of the cabinet discussion and of measures which were proposed, and given an opportunity to express their views.

This is a course followed only in situations of top national and international importance—occasions when it is considered essential that the unity of the cabinet in the policy under discussion should be beyond question.

Ex-Movie Man Given Remand

VANCOUVER (CP)—William Andrew Blackett, self-styled son of an English titled family, today was remanded until Aug. 11 for preliminary hearing on charges of obtaining $200 here on false pretences.

Well-dressed, Blackett was calm but appeared slightly puzzled when he appeared in court. No plea was entered after the charge was read.

Blackett claimed Wednesday he is the son of Lady Hobhouse. He said Lady Hobhouse is the wife of Sir Charles Chisholm Hobhouse of Somerset, England.

(The British "Who's Who" lists Sir Charles and three other titled Hobhouses of Somerset.)

He said he had enjoyed a successful film career in Britain, where he had made $60,000 a year. He had emigrated to Hollywood and appeared in Walt Disney's "Treasure Island," he said.

Motor Scooter Goes Transcontinental

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A one-cylinder motor scooter was Ronald Bullstrode's vehicle as he headed down the Alaskan Highway today toward his home on Long Island, N.Y.

The 26-year-old carpenter hoped to be the first to travel the northern highway by scooter. He expressed confidence that "if everything holds together" he would complete the 4,000-mile trip by September.

The scooter is a 125 cc. model.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

FIGURES AND STATUES

IN THE COURSE of a brief visit to a local beach one day last week I mused on—and was amused at—the seemingly total lack of inhibition possessed by some of the beach habitués, particularly the less shapely ones.

Cadaverous-looking men with bony knees and elbows bearing a striking resemblance to an old-fashioned hat rack and suggesting that they had attained the "old-age shrink" carved about in abbreviated bathing suits alongside women suffering from the middle-age spread and wearing beach suits that were evidently having a hard time meeting the two-way stretch strain of the figures they more or less encompassed.

KINDLY CLOTHES

WERE IT NOT for the adorable, fat and tanned little bodies of the babies toddling about in microscopic play-suits and the more shapely figures of the younger girls and boys who disported themselves in the briefest of swim suits, I would have willingly agreed with Alexander Pope's theory that "no more was seen the human form divine."

For, whatever the cause, the human form certainly assumes some queer shapes when seen without the flattering concealment of every-day garb—in other words, as viewed at any beach through sunglasses, darkly. And I idly wondered what some of those older sunbathers would have thought of themselves if they could have been mirrored in a movie—preferably by a slow-motion camera. It might have cured them of public exhibitionism.

FANTASTIC IN STONE

AND MY MIND reverted to a remark made by one of the doctors attending the annual meeting of the British Medical Association not long ago. He was replying to caustic criticisms made by other delegates of the design for a bust which was to have been part of the association's memorial to members killed in World War Two.

He reminded them that figures in stone are not always flattering, adding "The figures of many of the delegates would look pretty fantastic done in stone." And in that respect, I don't suppose doctors' figures differ much from others—judging by the corpulent contours I have seen even in clinical coats.

THAT STATUE

FROM THAT allusion to figures in stone, my wandering thoughts pass on to another figure in stone of which we have just been hearing again—that of Dublin's discarded Queen Victoria memorial. I notice that a local couple were able, after much effort, to get a glimpse of the monument while visiting in the Irish city this summer.

And their chief impression of the much-discussed marble memorial was that it was "squat." I am not quite sure if this description refers to the figure of the long-departed queen. If so, it suggests that the stone replica is pretty true to life, for from my childhood recollections I recall that Her Majesty was very short and stout of stature, despite her imperious bearing.

ORNATE ORNAMENT

FROM THE PICTURE, which appeared in this paper, however, I judge that the whole memorial is an elaborate and ornate, as well as weighty, example of monumental art—and I can understand why the city of London, Ont., dropped its application on learning the prohibitive cost of bringing it from Dublin.

Furthermore, remembering that it is now four months since a kindly-disposed Vancouver lawyer offered to ship it to Victoria at his expense, I am wondering if he, too, has found something wrong with the "figure"—but in another sense. Or does Victoria shy at anything so Victorian as another statue of Victoria?

DOCTOR SAYS

Rest, Good Nursing Is Apoplexy Treatment

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A stroke of apoplexy means there has been some bleeding from one of the blood vessels in the brain or that a clot has developed in one of the arteries or veins of the brain. Either one causes damage to the delicate brain tissues which that particular blood vessel supplies with blood and interferes with the functions which are controlled by the injured part of the brain.

Since both hemorrhage and a clot usually occur rapidly, the paralysis and interference with bodily functions is likely to be sudden. Also, because the nerves running from the brain to the muscles cross from one side to the other, a paralysis of the right side of the body means generally that the damage has occurred on the left side of the brain.

When the area injured is large, unconsciousness usually comes on. The breathing becomes noisy. The muscles on one side of the body—the one opposite to the side affected—become paralyzed. Feeling or sensation is not affected.

OVERLOOK COMPLAINTS

It is not possible by medical or surgical means to get at the brain and to remove the clot or to stop the bleeding. Watchful waiting is therefore about the only treatment which can be used immediately. Complete rest is, of course, essential. Good nursing care is important.

After a while carefully chosen exercises or massage may help. The paralysis, however, comes from the injury to the brain and is not in the muscles themselves and therefore one cannot expect too much from treatment.

The victims of a stroke frequently suffer from a change in personality. Irritability and excessive complaining are frequent. This can be annoying to family and friends who think it is unnecessary and unjust. It happens so often, however, that it should be considered as a result of the "stroke" itself and should be excused and accepted as well as possible.

The amount of recovery from a stroke depends on the original size of the hemorrhage or clot and what part of the brain is hit. Recovery starts early. The amount of paralysis present is usually greatest at the beginning and tends to become less as time goes on. Some people who have had an extensive paralysis recover almost entirely.

Served Over 30 Years As Fire Fighters

Three veteran fire fighters honored at a retirement presentation at Victoria's Fire Department headquarters Wednesday are pictured here with Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle and Ald. Three Men Face Trial On Charge Of Inn Robbery

Three young men charged with the June 24 armed robbery of the Goldstream Inn were committed for trial before a higher court at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing Wednesday in city court.

To stand trial are veteran British commando Stewart Robertson; Wilfred Hutchison; Finlayson Arm Road, and John "Ted" Hingley, 311 South Heights, Vancouver.

Preliminary hearing was held before Magistrate A. I. Thomas with George F. Gregory acting as Crown counsel. James J. Proudfoot is representing Hutchison and Hingley. Arthur H. Dave is acting for Robertson.

The Crown alleges the trio were the three men who, armed with rifles, a revolver and sheath knives, robbed Ralph Calladine, operator of the Goldstream Inn. Approximately $1,500 was stolen from Calladine by three masked men who gagged and bound the proprietor's wife and John Flynn, manager.

HOODS AND GUNS

Provincial police arrested the three men in a lonely mountain-side house in the Highland District two hours after the armed robbery. Two rifles, a 45 revolver and ammunition, a blanket bearing black cotton stocking hoods with eye-holes cut in them and other articles were found in the house and produced as exhibits in court.

At Wednesday's preliminary hearing Roger Monteith, sporting goods dealer, identified a rifle found in the house where the trio were apprehended. He testified he sold the gun to two men who resembled Hingley and Hutchison.

Sub-Inspector George Clark was also recalled to the witness stand for further cross-examination by Mr. Proudfoot with regard to the warnings given to the three men following their arrest. He testified that the trio were warned twice to form before being charged with armed robbery.

Nine-Year-Old Drowned Attempting To Save Dog

COURTENAY—Efforts to save his dog from the fast-rushing waters of an open flume brought death by drowning Wednesday to a nine-year-old Bevan boy.

The youngster, Alan Watt, was reported to have been swept a quarter of a mile down the flume which carries water from Comox Lake to Cowichan Collieries powerhouse, before his body was recovered.

His father, Robert Watt, raced down a catwalk above the flume in futile efforts to save his son. Father, son and dog were together on an outing when the pup fell into the flume. The boy climbed down to help his dog. Minutes later the father saw his son being tumbled down the flume under his feet.

Two Cumberland men finally dragged the boy's body out of the flume after the father had fallen. They were John Robertson and Norman Etherington.

The Courtenay inhalator squad attempted to revive the youngster.

Navy Screens Candidates For Commissioned Rank

Forty-five candidates ranging from ordinary seaman to chief petty officer are currently being screened for possible recommendations for commissioned rank by a Fleet Selection Board of senior naval officers in Pacific Command.

The board is sitting in H.M.C.S. Ontario, with Capt. H. F. Pullen as president, Cmdr. J. C. Reed, Cmdr. J. M. Leeming and Instg. Cmdr. J. D. Armstrong, members.

Those qualified educationally and professionally are being considered for one of the four avenues of promotion:

1. Men under 19 are being interviewed for possible placement in one of the Canadian service colleges.
2. Those under 23 will be considered for promotion to sub-lieutenant.
3. Men with technical background and who have university entrance, under a scheme instituted two years ago, can be placed in a science faculty at a Canadian university, though still in the navy.

4. Men with a minimum of 12 years' service and qualified educationally and professionally are being considered for promotion to branch officer—a new term for the rank formerly known as warrant officers and commissioned warrant officers.

The board will interview men who have been recommended for entry into the navy's preparatory school to complete their formal education prior to being considered further for one of the promotional channels outlined above.

Specialist officers representing the branch for which candidates are eligible include Capt. B. R. Spencer, engineering; ordnance, Cmdr. H. M. Walker; Lieut. F. H. Molst, executive; Surg. Cmdr. G. W. Chapman, medical; Capt. C. J. Dillon, supply.

Handless Man Paints Scenes

VEGEVILLE, Alta. (CP)—Five years ago, a forgotten land mine exploded in a German beet field and left Toronto-born Nicolai Bidniak with a bleeding stump for a right arm. The blast also sheered off his left hand.

Today Bidniak is a painter. He is rapidly winning acclaim for canvases he paints with a brush strapped with an elastic band to the short stump that remains of his right arm.

His skill is born of five years' hard work that started during his six-month stay in a German hospital after the mine explosion. His urge to paint grew almost without volition out of his efforts to remaster writing, the 30-year-old painter says.

"The pen just began to move about," he explains.

His canvases include still life and murals. He can turn out an inclusive portrait in two days. Bidniak was taken by his parents to the Ukraine when he was still a baby. He later moved to Germany and landed in a concentration camp, finally being conscripted to farm labor. That took him to the beet fields. He returned to Canada three months ago.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—The old saying about "bats in the belfry" came to life here. Roofing contractor Reg. Jones found 24 young bats in a chimney he was repairing. He returned next day and found 18 more.

Polio In England

DIGBY, Lincolnshire, Eng. (Reuter)—Eight cases of poliomyelitis in children have been confirmed in this village of 375 persons during the last two weeks. One child has died, but most of the others are mild cases.

Temporary Control

OSLO (CP)—Osloites had a field day when traffic lights were installed with buttons so pedestrians could stop traffic in order to cross the street. The long-suffering pedestrians had a lot of fun, pressing the button and parading back and forth in front of the stymied cars, until a policeman put an end to it.

Magnetic storms are generally ascribed to the passage of the earth through vast streams of ions or electrified particles that have been expelled from the explosion.

Australia Denies Subs Off Its Coast

CANBERRA, (AP) — Navy Minister Josiah Francis today "emphatically denied" reports that foreign submarines had been sighted off the Australian coast.

The Sydney Sun published such a report, attributed to "official" sources, and said it was possible the submarines were Russian.

A statement from Francis said New Guinea civilians early in May reported twice they had sighted what they thought were submarines, "but after investigations the claim was not confirmed."

Reports of the sighting of an unidentified submarine also cropped up in New Zealand. The naval board at Wellington said it was investigating reports that a sub had been seen off New Zealand's west coast.

RUSSIANS' VIEW

MOSCOW (CP) — The New Times today ridicules Canadian authorities for spreading rumors on what it calls alleged Russian submarines off the Canadian coast.

The weekly newspaper said "submarines should be sought not in the ocean but in the inks of Canadian newspaper liars."

The New Times says Canadian authorities needed "Soviet submarines" in order to distract the attention of the Canadian public from the "disastrous" armaments race into which the government was forcing the country.

Funds Asked For Columbia Fisheries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Magnuson, D. Wash., has urged Fred Lawton, director of the budget, to approve an appropriation of $5,000,000 for accelerating the Lower Columbia River fisheries program.

Magnuson made public today a letter in which he told Lawton that construction of the Ice Harbor Dam on the Snake River just above its confluence with the Columbia makes necessary the pushing of the lower river fisheries program.

The fisheries program, as authorized in 1947, was for an eventual expenditure of $20,000,000 to find means of protecting and increasing the fish runs in the Columbia after construction of the planned dams in that river and the Snake. Thus far only $3,000,000 has been appropriated.

Provision was made for the most modern and effective fish protective facilities, such as fish ladders, by-passes and collecting devices at Ice Harbor to protect the fish runs to the greatest possible extent.

Treacherous Korean Battleground

Somewhere in South Korea, troops of the 1st U.S. Cavalry Division eat a hasty meal in the field before moving up to the front. Note the steep mountainside in background overlooking narrow dirt road. In mountainous terrain like this, guerrilla troops are able to dig in with light weapons and do heavy damage to columns of troops and armor moving down the roads.—(Photo by NEA-Acme staff photographer Ed Hoffman)

An Opportunity For Saanich

A PART FROM HONORING AN OLD obligation, the northwest sewer offer approved by both Saanich and Victoria councils has the earmarks of good business for both parties. Financially, Saanich stands to gain most. On the other hand, improvement of the sewer service in that municipality will relieve the entire community of a health menace and nuisance of which Victoria has been conscious for years.

Victoria has indicated that if the proposal is not endorsed by the rate-payers of Saanich, the offer of acceptance will be withdrawn and the status of the debt, on the basis of the original amount due from Saanich plus accrued interest, will be re-established. That runs far above the $75,000 that has been approved by the two councils.

A few facts bear recapitulation: Saanich is in urgent need of a sewer system to correct conditions now existing in the Gorge and other areas. When it contemplated seeking Esquimalt approval for an outlet running through to the sea, it estimated costs of that particular part of the job at $400,000. That figure, an estimate only, was advanced several years ago. What the work would cost at today's charges can only be guessed. It might be $750,000. Under these circumstances, Saanich taxpayers now have before them a proposal at which they should jump when the issue is submitted in the form of a money-by-law.

The argument may be advanced that Victoria should strike a harder bargain. The city has suggested it will if the current offer is not endorsed. That puts the issue squarely up to the voters of the northern municipality.

Encouraging to all citizens who hold the welfare of the community as a whole above narrow parochial interests is the degree of co-operation shown both by Saanich and Victoria council members in the negotiations that have taken place. This is a sample of the Greater Victoria spirit which can retain for the municipal representatives a valuable measure of local autonomy when amalgamation becomes an accomplished fact in this community.

They Make Friends For Victoria

VICTORIA HAS MANY MORE SPECTACULAR sports than lawn bowling, but it is doubtful if any of them will provide greater satisfaction for the participants than the contests now being conducted on half a dozen greens in this community. From all parts of the northwest the bowlers are assembled, doing their best in the different competitions, and enjoying that friendly contact which appears to be one of the outstanding features of their particular form of recreation.

This, we suggest, is one of the most valuable publicity assets which sport gives the city. The competition will be keen enough. All bowlers are playing to win. But beyond that they will have the opportunity to renew old contacts and make new ones.

There seems to be a leisuresship about lawn bowling which is admirably adapted to good fellowship and courtesy. At each of the tournaments—and this is the 23rd of its kind here—there is the atmosphere of an autumn gathering, without tensions and without that strain which some games impose upon their participants in competition.

Greater Victoria's lawn bowlers do a good job for this community. They welcome to our town friends from near and far and treat them in a manner which brings them back. May their tournament be favored with weather and other conditions that will ensure its success.

By The Rules Of War

IT IS TO BE HOPED THAT NORTH Korean authorities will permit a representative of the International Red Cross to visit prisoner-of-war camps in the Communist area for inspection purposes. Both sides of the conflict have given assurances to the humane organization that the requirements of international law will be observed, and inspection of camps run by the Americans and South Koreans, according to a Red Cross official, reveal them to be in accordance with the Geneva convention. Permission is now being awaited for a similar inspection of Communist prisoner-of-war camps. Front-line dispatches from various correspondents have told, of course, of atrocities committed by both North and South Koreans. Whether they were carried out officially or by individuals in the heat of battle cannot be determined at this date. Where military order prevails, however, captured troops should be accorded the rights inherent in the convention to which most nations of the world have given agreement. The readiness of the North Koreans to admit a neutral observer will provide a gauge of their willingness to adhere to the common code.

Just A Plain Fraud

BRITAIN'S LABOR PARTY'S NATIONAL executive has warned its members against signing peace petitions which advocate the absolute banning of the use of atomic weapons in any future war. The reason for the warning is the executive's opinion that this appeal to mass psychology is based on the most obvious type of fraud. With this intention anybody with a grain of intelligence will readily agree.

It will be understood, of course, that the national executive of the Labor Party speaks authoritatively for the trades unions of Great Britain. Its warning, moreover, stems from its understanding of the intrigue conducted by the "Com-mies" within the rank and file of the organized workers.

The "British Peace Committee" and the "Canadian Peace Congress" and the Victoria "Peace Council" are all tarred with the same Communist brush. Banned down to a few words, their mission is to persuade the gullible that the Soviet Union is the only nation on earth dedicated to the establishment of peace and good will; but what the petition peddlers should explain is why Russia is so completely armed—and against whom?

Discoveries In Austrian Cave Show Life Of Neanderthal Man

By ERIC GEDYE, from Vienna

RESEARCHES by a team of Viennese archaeologists who are spending a fortnight in a great cave in the Austrian Alps at a height of 6,000 feet have led to the important discovery that these Alps were inhabited as far back as 50,000 B.C. by human beings of the Neanderthal type.

INHABITED AREA

Convinced by the views advanced in a paper drawn up 20 years ago by a professor from Bad Aussee, that the area concerned had been inhabited by "Ice Age Men," Hofrat Kiesling, who has had great experience in the exploration of caves in the Alps in search of prehistoric relics, moved in July with his team of explorers to the Totes Gebirge, the "Dead Mountains." This is a lofty range of barren chalk mountains which lies east of Salzburg and Bad Ischl. The explorers took up residence in the huge cave known as the Salzföhle, often entered but never scientifically explored.

Digging beneath the eight-inch layer of hard clay which forms the floor of the cave, they made their discovery some 60 feet within the cave. It consisted of two perfectly-preserved skulls of Ice-age bears, three times the size of those of any bears existing today. The skulls lay side by side on a little "floor" of stones and around them other stones had been arranged in an ornamental pattern. These bears became extinct about the date given by Hofrat Kiesling for the period when the cave had human inhabitants. There were no other bones of any description in it, and examination reveals no traces of water ever having flowed through it, so that the conclusion is inevitable that the skulls owe their position to human agency.

ANCIENT OFFERINGS

Professor Ehrenberg, the leading Vienna paleontologist, and Dr. Krenn, the head of the Prehistoric Department of the Vienna Natural History Museum, agree that these skulls are undoubtedly remains of sacrificial offerings of Neanderthal men to the gods of the Ice Age. The Salzföhle Cave, they believe, was probably the "summer residence" of a group of Ice-age hunters, who placed their sacrificial heads in the position where they were found today to ensure success or to give thanks for a good haul in the chase.

Prize And Risk

By STEWART ALSOP, From Washington
SINCE the Korean attack, the Soviet rulers have suddenly found themselves in an astonishingly favorable position. But they know that this favorable position will not last indefinitely. The Soviet reaction to these twin facts will largely determine the course of future events.

Now that the United States, having no honorable or rational alternative, is fighting in Korea, the Soviet rulers have been confronted with a new, and almost certainly unexpected, situation. The inadequate existing American conventional forces have been wholly committed in Korea. And throughout the rest of the non-Soviet world there is a yawning military vacuum.

THE CASE of Japan provides perhaps the most striking illustration of the nature of this vacuum. The greatest concentration of American military power outside the United States has been in Japan. Yet the simple fact is that, since Korea, the rulers in the Kremlin can quite rationally hope to gain control of Japan without committing any Russian military forces at all.

On the one hand, since Korea, the only military strength on the Japanese islands consists of a single American division; American air units wholly committed in Korea, and a decentralized and therefore virtually impotent Japanese police force. On the other hand, the Kremlin controls the Japanese Communist Party, which has been ordered to prepare for "direct action," and which runs the vital transport and telecommunications unions; 300,000 Japanese prisoners in Siberia, most of whom have received paramilitary training, with at least a division and probably more organized and equipped for combat; and the indoctrinated Japanese prisoners already returned to Japan.

THUS it would be remarkably easy for the Kremlin to arrange a "peoples' uprising" in Japan, against the "white chauvinists and American imperialists." While the remaining American occupation forces and the local police had their hands more than full dealing with sabotage, a "peoples' army" of Japanese prisoners could be landed in the northern island of Hokkaido from the Russian-held port of Sakhalin. And it would be virtually impossible to disengage the American forces in Korea in time to deal with this new threat, particularly if the "Chinese Communists" simultaneously tied down the 7th Fleet with an attack on Formosa.

THIS is a nightmare. But it is a nightmare which is taken with grim seriousness by those in close touch with the situation, especially since there have been intelligence reports that the Soviets were establishing a "Japanese Peoples' government" in North Korea, and the fact that the Kremlin has this sort of capability even in American-held Japan merely serves to underline the tempting military opportunities which exist right around the border of the Soviet sphere.

Moreover, the Soviet rulers must certainly be considering carefully one compelling reason for taking further advantage of these opportunities in the near future. This is that the extraordinarily favorable Soviet military situation will not last very long. The United States and its western allies have now most publicly announced their intention of replacing existing weakness with future strength.

THUS perhaps in two years, perhaps in three, the whole basis of the Soviet world strategy will be undermined. Soviet strategy has been based on a series of demonstrations of Soviet strength and western weakness, designed to ensure a progressive crumbling of the western will to resist. When the West is strong, this will no longer be possible.

Moreover, once the West is strong, the Soviet rulers will in turn be faced with the danger of losing control of their vast, unwieldy empire, and ultimately of the Soviet state itself. Thus the whole logic of their situation would seem to compel the Soviet rulers to strike again and again, to seize vital positions while the opportunity to do so still exists.

THERE is just one reason why the men in the Kremlin may hesitate. Again, Japan provides a convenient illustration. However disguised as a "peoples' revolt," a Soviet-sponsored attack on Japan would almost certainly mean a general war, because the United States is formally committed in Japan. A general war would mean the use of the American atomic stockpile against the Soviet Union. Thus the prize, although Japan is the greatest prize in the Orient, may not seem worth the risk.

YET the risk must certainly seem less grave to the Soviet rulers in those other areas—Burma, for example, or Iran, or Yugoslavia or Finland—where the United States is not formally committed. In such areas the prize may seem well worth the risk. This is why serious consideration is being given in certain quarters to a formal warning that the United States will consider any aggression by the Soviet Union or its satellites as an act of war. There are obvious and grave disadvantages to such a course. But there are able men who are coming to believe that only thus can peace be preserved.

SEASONAL REFORM

Windsor Star

The calendar reform people are feeling considerably perked up; now that there's a likelihood the United Nations General Assembly will at least discuss the project these years. They're getting somewhere, even if it's still some distance short of their objective.

Calendar reform, when you get right down to it, may be highly desirable. There's no need to say so, but the seasonal reform, or reform of the seasons if that's any clearer, is overdue, too.

NOMINATION

Would you be good enough to put the following suggestion before those who are responsible for granting the "best citizen" award?

I should like to be one of those who propose Miss Kathleen Agnew for this recognition of her years of good citizenship. No doubt many other people will also have recommended this lady, and they will all have good reason for their action. Canada has been my home for many years and I have observed her public-spirited actions throughout a lengthy period, and know how widespread have been her interests and charitable donations. She has given so generously, not only in a financial sense but, which in some cases is so much more important, she has given her personal interest, constructive help, and individual encouragement to undertakings which without her would have failed in the good work they were attempting.

Her large donations are well known, but there have been innumerable cases of her assistance to deserving causes and individuals which are not generally known.

In honoring Miss Agnew this excellent organization would increase its own prestige.

Indian Opinion On Korea

By RAWLE KNÖX, from New Delhi

HAD Pandit Nehru's peace notes to Moscow and Washington been calculated to stiffen Indian opinion in favor of Soviet Russia and against the United States they could hardly have been more successful. Actually, only a few ultra-suspicious pro-Westerners read such guile into his motives, although the anti-Anglo-American press did affect to believe that the notes were a sop to the Russians, in the hope that they would forgive India for accepting the United Nations resolutions concerning North Korean aggression.

SEIZED OPPORTUNITY

In fact, Pandit Nehru was merely seizing the opportunity to end the Korean battle and introduce the Peking government into the Security Council at one blow. Since all Indians wish to see a quick end to a war which is uncomfortably close, and most would solidly agree that Mao Tse-tung's government represents the people of China while Chiang Kai-shek is merely a figurehead for the hated imperialists, Pandit Nehru can claim to have been making a popular and understandable move.

What results he expected it is very difficult to see. Moscow's quick publication of the correspondence, including Pandit Nehru's expressed hope that the correspondence would continue, had an undoubted propaganda effect.

When Mr. Dean Acheson's reply to Nehru made it clear that America would not even begin any discussion unless the North Korean troops first withdrew to the 38th parallel, the impression here was that while Stalin had been gracious, Truman had been dampeningly chilly. American views on the rights and wrongs of the war had less effect than the tone of the message. To Indians always verging on the hyper-sensitive, it appears that their Premier has been encouraged by Moscow and snubbed by Washington.

UNFORTUNATE REACTION

At the present moment that is a most unfortunate reaction. Quite apart from this, the people of Asia have made the practical observation that the North Koreans are giving the Americans a sound thrashing. Asiatics are, above all, opportunists. Though Indians like to regard the "Quit India" movement of 1942 as a spontaneous rising unconnected with outside events, it obviously gained much strength from the fact that the Japanese had defeated the British. It was inspired by the feeling that what Japan could do India could do also. In the same spirit today Communists in the Philippines, Indo-China, Burma and even India are watching the North Koreans.

East German Army In Making

RUSSIA is building a powerful secret army in Germany while the world watches South Korea. Collier's reports this week, from Berlin, the weekly's team of European correspondents advises that already in the Soviet sector a carefully-trained German army equipped for fierce warfare and imbued with Communist fanaticism is growing rapidly.

The new German army—called the Bereitschaften, meaning "alert units"—differs from the Nazi war machine of World War II in one respect: it takes orders from Stalin instead of Hitler.

FIRST TRAINEES

According to the magazine's European writers David Perlmutter, Seymour Freidin and William Atwood, these Bereitschaften, organized last fall under Russian supervision, will graduate early next month the first group of 50,000 trainees.

In one year, they predict, there will be enough skilled Germans under arms to relieve the Russians of all occupation duties in Eastern Germany. In three years a German army of nearly 500,000 men will be ready for action. Purpose of the army is allegedly to protect the "democratic German Republic" from the "sinister machinations of the Western imperialists."

"Actually, the Bereitschaften are the nucleus of a potential striking force designed to capture all of Germany for the Cominform," the Collier's correspondents report.

German military leaders are in charge of welding the new fighting force—under watchful Soviet supervision.

"This officer corps is composed entirely of generals and high-ranking staff officers of the Nazi regime," Kurt Schumacher, leader of the German Socialist party, told the writers.

Today's new German army is being formed at 56 Bereitschaft schools scattered through East Germany—schools organized usually into 1,000-man battalions and company-sized "commandos," and described as well-equipped.

NO GUARANTEE

Top-level Americans in West Germany agree that nothing in the world would guarantee that a rearmament Western Germany wouldn't join up with the Eastern forces to fight for the greater glory of a new, united Reich.

The report says that the best counter-threat to the rising Bereitschaften in Germany's Soviet sector is the American army now on duty west of the demarcation line. The American army, aided by the British, the French and the other nations of the Atlantic Pact.

THE King of the Belgians has made a rash gamble with fate—and lost. Leopold's dogged insistence on retreating his throne, in the face of fierce popular opposition, all but plunged his country into civil strife before he reluctantly gave way to horse sense.

Even now there is no certainty that he has acted soon enough. His people, and an anxious outside world, can only hope he has and that calm may return to his troubled land.

Leopold has given a promise which his subjects, eager for peace, choose to interpret as satisfactory, although there may be an "if" in it. He has agreed to the transfer of his powers to Crown Prince Baudouin, and also implies that he himself will abdicate when his son reaches his majority in 1951—if the three political parties then still support the prince.

It is interesting to take a quick glimpse at what has been happening to monarchies the last half century. In that comparatively brief period the following monarchies, among others, have been abolished:

The Russian Empire, Germany, Spain, Turkey, Albania, Austria, Bavaria, Bulgaria, China, Hungary, Italy, Montenegro, Manchukuo, Portugal, Romania, Serbia and several smaller states.

The Belgian crisis has been far more than a national affair. It has been a matter of concern to all the western powers which are standing against communism. Belgium is an important part of the Atlantic Pact, which has been created for the defence of western Europe. Apros of this the London Times observes:

"The statement announcing the king's decision places it firmly upon right, simple and sufficient grounds. It was clear that the king could not be king of all the Belgians. He has therefore acted with the over-riding concern of assuring Belgian unity at a time when, he says, the international situation more than ever needs that unity to be reinforced."

"The nations that stand beside Belgium in the larger crisis to which he alludes will be grateful to King Leopold for thus recognizing the peculiar danger of the civil faction at this time. He has perhaps done no more than his patriotic duty, but also he has done no less."

MUCH SOONER

Montreal Star

"If you get up earlier in the morning than your neighbor," said the town philosopher, "and work harder, and stick to your job more closely and stay up later planning how to make more money than your neighbor, and burn the midnight oil planning how to get ahead of him while he is snoozing, not only will you leave more money when you die than he will, but you'll leave it a darn sight sooner."

RISKY PRIVILEGE

Toronto Star

Do motorists drive more courteously and carefully when they are away from home? This question has been raised because of the opinion of Winnipeg traffic and safety authorities, who say that the good driving habits of Toronto and Montreal motorists out west have helped to improve driving behavior in Winnipeg to the point where traffic rules can be relaxed. In fact, say the traffic and safety boards, the driving behavior of Winnipeggers has been bettered to such an extent that it is proposed to permit motorists there to cross intersections against the red light—"when the way is clear."

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"If you ask me," said the Elevator Man, "a lot of our problems are mainly mental. It's what we think about them rather than what they really are, that causes us trouble. And everybody looks at things a different way. So you find that to one person girls in bathing suits on boulevards are a nuisance. To another they're not. You may look on them as good. You may look on them as bad. Or you may just look on 'em, period. Mind the step!"

"It puts me in mind," said the Elevator Man, "of the Irishman who set out to borrow a shovel from his neighbor down the road. 'Sure,' he thought to himself, 'old Pat will be glad to lend me his shovel.' After a few yards he began to wonder, 'But maybe he'll be using it?' And then he thought, 'Oh pshaw, Pat wouldn't turn me down.' A few yards later, 'But maybe he'll be feeling mean today and say no.' And farther on: 'Maybe he'll remember that shovel I broke and tell me to get out. By the time he got half-way, 'Why, the mean old skindirt, remembering a thing like that. The handle was cracked away.' A little later: 'Well, of all the dirty tricks—to refuse a man a shovel because of one broken two years ago. A few minutes later there was a furious battering on Pat's door, and the surprised owner opened it to find a red-faced, angry Irishman shouting: 'You stingy tightwad, Pat, you can keep your blankety-blank shovel and bad cess to you both.' Going down!"

"Well," said the Elevator Man, "it's all in the mental approach. And if you can't make up your mind you can always get help. Did you ever hear of the girl who couldn't decide which dance to go to on New Year's Eve? She called up the Spanish reservation to ask the chief of the tribe his advice. Shortly heard the Indians are good-humored pickers."

Protection For Soldiers Given Wrong Orders

OTTAWA (CP)—Many veterans may not be aware of the fact, but it's been a Canadian military law for some years that a soldier is not justified in committing a crime even if told to do so by a superior officer.

And there is no intention of changing the law for Canada's troops. This was made apparent at the last session of Parliament when the most sweeping revision of Canadian military law since Confederation was made, and the existing law on that point was passed unchanged.

Attention has been drawn to the law by a House of Lords debate in Britain which rejected an amendment that would have altered it. Defence department law officers say Canada adopted the law from Britain.

They admit it places quite a responsibility on the individual soldier. Should he fire into a crowd of rioters, say, because an officer tells him to?

But, they say, it upholds the superior position of civil law and it gives the soldier protection if orders are not justified and he does see fit to refuse to obey them.

The officers could not recall any case in which this was actually an issue in Canada's wars.

On Tuesday William G. Nelson's "String Ensemble" made a return engagement. The highly entertaining marionettes in unique and sustained characterizations, fascinated the audience.

Tuesday afternoon, the Drama Club, which was formed at the request of the students and as an off-shoot of the class in Creative Dramatics, presented three one-act plays. One of these, "Yvonne Is Yvonne," was by Nora K. Purslow of Vernon.

Directed by Alfred Jones, it revealed considerable dramatist talent and was well received. The other plays were "The

Labor Board Conduct Of Strike Vote Draws Criticism Of Unions' Group

Procedure followed by the B.C. Labor Relations Board in conducting a supervised strike vote was condemned by the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council at a meeting Wednesday night.

Provoked by the method of balloting in the vote taken last week among 360 city carpenters, council president Charles Peck declared the procedure "a mockery of democracy."

He suggested the executive of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council call in the executive of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council to consider the matter fully and then lay a joint complaint with Labor Minister John Cates.

The meeting endorsed this suggestion.

Speaking of the recent carpenters' vote, Mr. Peck maintained: "The strike ballot taken the other day was not secret. It was just a mockery of democracy. Those men who voted in favor of striking can be picked out by their employers. Their employers can therefore retaliate against them."

Mr. Peck verbally pulled to pieces the Industrial, Conciliation and Arbitration Act, which is the main piece of this province's labor legislation.

He said the act would never work so far as the building industry was concerned.

Council secretary Percy Rayment also leveled criticism at the act. He saw no need for the government stepping in to conduct strike votes. He said unions were better equipped to do this work.

"The vote should be taken by the union and by secret ballot," he said. "Let an official of the Labor Relations Board be present to watch. That amount of supervision should be enough for the purpose of the act."

Both Mr. Rayment and Mr. Peck advocated that strike votes should be taken on an industry-wide basis. They objected to having ballots by employees of different firms counted separately, as was done in the carpenters' vote.

FUNNY FACE

THE STORY: Although Ellie Lane and Jack Lanning had been separated a number of years, Ellie had to find out what happened to him before she could accept Ben Mallon's proposal of marriage. A detective agency traced Jack to a fourth rate night club where the trail ended about three years ago.

VIII
The next day Ellie Lane drove to Long Beach. Jack Lanning's last address had been a rooming house and the landlady had no information to give the detective. The woman, a Mrs. Kess, hawk-faced and hard, recognized Ellie from the screen and was very excited.

She remembered Jack Lanning well. She might even have been fond of him.
"Well, well," she said when she found they had been married. "What did you turn him loose for? He was pretty enough to keep around just for the heck of it."

"Was he?" Ellie could not help smiling a little.
"I'll say. Never figured why he didn't make the grade as an actor. He was popular enough." "With the girls?" Ellie managed to make the question careless and despaired herself as soon as she had said it.

"Sure. Never gave 'em much, though. Some men are like that. All charm and don't care a hoot. Tough to be married to one like that, isn't it?" She looked at Ellie shrewdly. She seemed to be measuring the value of her coiffure and smart suit and simple jewelry. "He was flat broke, you know. Flat. Not that it bothered him any. Didn't even pay his rent, finally just took off one night."

"I see." Ellie could not see at all. The picture of Jack down, sneaking, not paying bills, could not come to her mind.
"He was nice enough about it," the woman said amiably. "Left his stuff and a note. Said he'd pick it up if he got some money, or I could sell it if he didn't come back. I forgot all about it. Must be around somewhere. Do you want it?"

They went to the basement storeroom, crowded and grimy and damp. Mrs. Kess poked and shifted. In the corner were two suitcases. Tied to the handles were keys and neat labels in Jack's handwriting.

"Mildewed," said Mrs. Kess. "That's all right," Ellie said inarily, and reached into her purse to pay Jack's bill.
She opened Jack's bags in her own bedroom. There was little to remind her of Jack; his personal things he had taken with him. Most of the suits were cheap and well worn. There was an ancient bathrobe he had owned when he was married to Ellie. She never told me what she thought when she saw it.

Two manila envelopes were full of pictures. Pictures of Jack in his first revue and in road companies, pictures of Jack and his second dancing partner. There were no pictures of Janet or of Ellie. He might have thrown them away. Or he might have taken them with him.

That was all. The suitcases were packed and in the garage by this time Ben came that night. He knew she had been to Long Beach. When he saw her face he took her hand in his and said: "Ellie, no matter what happened, don't decide anything while you're upset."

"Nothing happened," she told him what she had found out. "I'm not worried. He's still charming and all the rest of it. He'll get along—probably better than I will, at that." She added irrelevantly, "Do you know why I divorced him, Ben? Because he called me 'Funny Face.' Because I loved him so much I was ridiculous."

"And you still do—is that it? I was afraid of that, I always have been." He swung away from her to the other end of the room. Suddenly he was savage: "How I hate that guy!"

She was shocked. "Why, Ben?" "Why should you spend your life carrying the torch for him? Is he worth it?"

She said in despair: "Oh, Ben, do you think I'm as unhappy as all that?" She went to him and he turned away from her. She gestured helplessly. "Oh, I'm not talking about grand romance. After all—" she smiled wryly "I'm hardly the figure for it. But I fell in love once and I'm not going to fall in love again. I guess I'm stuck with it, that's all."

His voice was strained and rough. "Don't you think that if we were married—maybe, afterwards—"

"No, Ben, you know better than that. Marriage for companionship would solve a lot of problems, but it just wouldn't be marriage to me. Oh, I know you wouldn't demand love of me any more than I'd ask it of you."

"You wouldn't have to ask it. I love you now."

SO SENTIMENTAL

She stared at him a moment, completely baffled. Then the old mischievous, comic look came back to her face. "Oh, Ben, men are so sentimental. But you know that isn't true. We're both shy and we get along beautifully. We're awfully fond of each other. But you're not in love with me; not the least bit."

He turned on her then. He was angry; his face was dark with blood. And Ellie looked back at him, serene and kind, and perfectly unchangeable. Ben had not said any of the things he wanted to say. Finally he shrugged helplessly.

She took his hand. "That's better. Now let's have dinner." As they dined, a thought struck her, and she laughed gaily. "You know, I think you're going to be happy about this in the long run. Some day you'll fall crashingly in love with a raving beauty, and you'll be glad not to be stuck with a dear old friend like me."

Would Like To Live In Victoria

Visiting friends and relations on Vancouver Island, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Renner of Tulsa, Okla., took time out to praise

Victoria. "Everything and everyone has made our short visit just perfect," they agreed.

Nice City But Lacking In Signs For Tourists

The "oil capital of the world"—Tulsa, Oklahoma—supplied "Today's Tourists." Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Renner of 1625½ North Denver Street.

Winnipeg Police Advise Thugs To Keep Moving

WINNIPEG (CP) — "Keeping 'em moving" is the policy of Winnipeg cops.

Veteran officers say there was a time when Winnipeg was the rendezvous of wanted criminals from all parts of Canada and the northwestern United States.

But no more, they say. Detectives keep close tabs on all arrivals, advise them to "move on."

Those who disregard this advice are taken into custody and given the choice of leaving town or serving a possible six-month stretch for vagrancy.

The transient criminal element is kept under observation by a daily check on cheap rooming houses and third-rate hotels. Pawn shops are regularly visited.

Chief Constable Charles MacIver said the Winnipeg method has come in for some criticism in the courts and from police departments in other cities.

But to Chief MacIver it's the "mark of an efficient police force."

Mrs. Renner said sincerely she would love to come back and live in Victoria. Her husband praised the city, but has one complaint.

"The lack of adequate signposts makes it extremely hard going at times," he said. "Several of the signs are not uniform and finding places of interest is extremely difficult."

Mr. Renner said he found Canadian drivers a good deal more courteous than those south of the border, and Mrs. Renner paid the same compliment to store clerks here.

Other items praised by the visitors were Butchart's Gardens, good roads, cheaper prices for food.

WAR CAME TOO CLOSE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — "Please stop printing maps showing the Korean war lines of battle superimposed over this and nearby states for comparison," a letter to the Richmond News Leader said.

"My best presser left without notice for three days to get his two sisters away from Enfield, N.C., as the map showed the Communists were only a few miles away."

Nanaimo Firms Pay $1.68 To Carpenters

Upon the unanimous recommendation of a conciliation board which sat earlier in the day, the Nanaimo Contractors' Association Wednesday night signed an agreement with local 527, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, providing Nanaimo carpenters with a 1950 wage rate of $1.68 an hour.

The new rate of pay represents a 13-cent increase over the hourly pay rate of last year.

The new agreement also strengthens the union shop clause, making it necessary for new employees to become union members within 15 days of employment. Previously a 30-day period was allowed.

Members of the conciliation board were M. McGeough, chairman; A. Hogson, contractors' nominee, and R. M. Strachen, union nominee.

The earliest period in the history of man is known as the colithic (dawn or stone age) and may have extended to 600,000 years B.C.

CALLED TO BAR last Saturday was John Eric Gatehouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gatehouse, 1911 Lulle Street. Mr. Gatehouse is a veteran of World War Two, serving with the Royal Canadian Navy. He is a graduate of the University of B.C. He attended Oak Bay High School prior to his university education.

The estimated Jewish population of Europe dropped from 9,737,200 in 1939 to 2,780,000 in 1948.

Labor Wants Conciliation Act Changes

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.A.F.L.) has decided to exert full pressure in an effort to get the Provincial Government to amend the Industrial, Conciliation and Arbitration Act, which it claims is unfair legislation.

The council decided at a meeting Wednesday night to take steps to bring about a conference of all T.L.C. unions in the province to consider the full question of B.C. labor laws, and to prepare a brief on the matter before the next session of the legislature.

The council also decided to write all M.L.A.'s, immediately, asking them to go on record as being for or against removal of the section of the L.C.A. Act pertaining to government-supervised strike votes. The council claims this section to be particularly objectionable to the cause of labor.

Oak Bay Considers Direction Signs

Oak Bay, whose many winding crescent and dead-end streets often have caused strangers to lose their way, likely will have directional signs erected in the not-to-distant future.

At the suggestion of Councilor Fred Robinson, the municipal council Wednesday night instructed engineer A. S. G. Musgrave to make a report on the cost of erecting directional signs in the form of an arrow marked "city centre."

No Water Rate Boost Planned In Oak Bay

Oak Bay is not considering raising water rates, Reeve P. A. Gibbs said at a meeting of the municipal council Wednesday night.

The question of a possible increase arose when information on recently revised rates in Saanich was presented to the council and handed over to the finance committee.

The reeve explained the Saanich figures were obtained merely for a comparison.

Main, Kauder May Repeat Net Final

Lorne Main and Ed Kauder, finalists in the recent Western Canada tennis championships at Vancouver, breezed through local opposition in their second-round matches of the B.C. net tourney at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club Wednesday.

Main bounced George Bishop, 6-2, 6-0, while Kauder ousted Gordon Hartley, 6-1, 6-1.

Peter Becroft of New Zealand and Billy Green of Vancouver turned in the most interesting match of the day, Becroft taking the measure of the Vancouver star, 6-2, 10-8. The second set was a servers' battle with Becroft breaking Green's service in the 17th game.

Victoria's Jack Millidge bowed to Paul Willey of Vancouver, but not before he made a game stand in second set after losing the first, 6-0. Millidge twice squared matters once at 3 to 3 and again at 5 to 5 but could not hold his service and dropped the set, 7-5.

SEMI-DECEITFUL WINS
Arvilla McGuire was the only seeded women's player to see action and she had little trouble in downing Mrs. Gwyn Dawson, 6-3, 6-1.

Jack Parker and Jack Butt of Victoria Club were sidelined from the men's doubles by the favored combination of Mansett and Jim Herd. Main and Green whipped Cranston Browning and Howard Tooby, 6-0, 6-0, and Kauder and Willey eliminated Henley and Darryl Thompson of Vancouver, 6-0, 6-2.

Davidson's Rink Gains Lawn Bowling Finals

It will be Billy Davidson of Victoria West vs. Vancouver Terminal Club's C. M. Gregg in the finals for the men's rinks crown at Beacon Hill Park Saturday morning.

Davidson reached the last stage of the competition yesterday by eliminating South Vancouver's D. McCullough, who had not previously been defeated, in one semifinal round.

Gregg eliminated the city's other hopeful quartette skipper, H. Moorehouse of the Canadian Pacific club in the other semifinal.

In the men's singles, Johnny Lang of South Vancouver remained in the running to prove himself champion.

Tam O'Shanter Golf Becomes Milk-Wagon Run

Big Field Forces Pros To Tee Off At Break Of Dawn

CHICAGO (AP)—The $75,000 Tam O'Shanter golf jubilee became a milk-wagon derby today. The main batch of 250 professionals was forced to tee off at daybreak.

There was such a last-minute rush of entries that promoter George S. May had to revise his schedule for the first two days into a dawn-to-dusk affair.

With the exception of exempted players who were automatically awarded berths on the basis of past records, the hordes of less fortunate pros teed off at the unheard-of hour of 6 a.m. on an 18-hole qualifying jaunt for 56 places open in the All-American tournament bracket.

So large was the field that extended qualifying trials were also set for tomorrow morning. The 56 qualifiers and 20 handicapped pros begin 72-hole medal play for the All-American pot of gold Saturday.

Meanwhile, the women and the men amateurs opened fire today. In all, more than 400 players were ready to unhook the biggest bombardment in United States golf history.

All of golf's shotmasters except Ben Hogan were on hand. Favorites include Tam's own representative, Lloyd Mangrum, who is shooting for his third consecutive All-American title; the sensationally rising star, Jack Burke; British Open champion Bobby Locke, the 1947 Tam titlist making his initial start on American fairways in a year; Sam Snead, and Jim Ferrier.

City Eleven Off To Battle Calgary

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver City, British Columbia's provincial soccer champions, will leave today on what they hope will be a drive to the Dominion championship.

First leg of their playoffs will take them to Calgary where they meet the Alberta champs in a best of three series.

Providing they get by Calgary, the city eleven will return home prior to meeting the winner of the Winnipeg-Montreal series.

Winnipeg, with a strong side, this year is expected to have little trouble with the easterners and is favored to meet Vancouver on the coast later in the month.

Men's doubles competition continues today. Preliminary and secondary rounds were played Wednesday.

NEW TITLIST
Mrs. C. Donovan of Vancouver's Mount Pleasant club is the new women's champion. She succeeds Mrs. L. Hunter of North Vancouver, last year's winner of the James McMartin cup.

Finals were played Wednesday night. Mrs. Donovan defeated Mrs. T. Wadley of New Westminster.

Close Play Marks Bowling Doubles

Strange coincidence was brought to light in preliminary round of women's doubles at Canadian Pacific greens Wednesday. Two members of Victoria Club were playing against two women from Vancouver's Grandview Club, but when reporter asked for names to identify group, a Victoria woman and Vancouver bowler had same names and initials. Left to right: Mrs. T. A. Simmons and Mrs. F. Smith, Victoria; Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. W. McHallen, Vancouver. Grandview Club.

Hal White's Brilliant Two-Hit Job Adds Game To Detroit Lead

Maybe Red Rolfe had a hunch about Hal White. Call it what you may—hunch, desperation, luck or shot-in-the-dark—the Detroit manager's move was a touch of genius.

White, a refugee from the bullpen, gave the Tigers' pennant hopes a boost yesterday with a brilliant two-hit shutout of New York 4 to 0. It shot the Tigers two game out front in the American League.

The 31-year-old right-hander in his first starting assignment since July 4, faced only 31 men. Only singles by Gene Woodling in the third and Johnny Mize in the fourth marred his no-hit bid. He was the first right-hander to hold the Yanks scoreless all year.

White did a job at the plate, too, driving in what proved to be the winning run with a second-inning single off Allie Reynolds. Tigers scored three more in the seventh on three hits, a walk and a costly throwing error by Reynolds.

Despite White's effort, the Tigers have no relief. The Yankees, clinging to second place by three percentage points, must be faced again today. And Cleveland, also two games back, becomes a more serious threat each day.

DOBY IMPRESSIVE

Larry Doby hit three successive homers for the Indians last night as Bob Lemon won his 17th the easy way—11 to 0 over Washington—allowing only three hits. It was his ninth straight victory. Lemon, a converted infielder, joined the fun with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Boston Red Sox made it 15 out of 16 over St. Louis Browns, rallying with three in the ninth for a 9 to 8 edge. Walt Dropo's single, following a two-run double by Vern Stephens, did the job for the Sox, now seven games behind Detroit in fourth place.

Elmer Valo hit for the cycle with a single, double, triple and homer for Philadelphia in a 10 to 3 triumph over Chicago.

Emory (Bubba) Church boosted the Phillies' National League lead to 3½ games with a 2 to 0 decision over Cincinnati. He allowed only three hits for his fifth win and second shutout.

Church drove in the first run with a single in the fourth and Del Ennis added the other with his 24th homer in the eighth.

Brooklyn moved into second place on timely hitting by Jimmy Russell against his old Pittsburgh mates. Russell, batting right-handed against lefty Bill Werle, hit a two-run homer to tie the score in the ninth. Ralph Kiner's two-run homer in the top half

Ref Works In Close Accord With Police

Gives Rocks Assist As Andrews Tames Adanacs

By BILL WALKER

Referees, like policemen, aren't such bad fellows after all, especially when they meet on common ground.

When Bill Andrews, the Shamrocks' portly bluecoat, but better known for his goateering feats between the pipes for the Intercity Lacrosse League club, came down with an attack of "ligamentitis" (a badly bruised right arm) the first to come to his rescue was lacrosse referee Tom McKeachie.

Andrews had visions of sitting on the bench when the club medico slapped a cast on his arm a few days ago but McKeachie, a welder by trade, had other ideas.

He made a special steel brace that Andrews could put inside his glove and thus play against the Adanacs last night at the Memorial Arena even though his injured wrist and arm was heavily taped.

And it was a good thing for the Rocks that burly Bill was in the nets as he treated a capacity "Fan Appreciation" house to a tremendous goateering display as the Shamrocks tripped the second-place, yellow jackets, 15 to 10.

Bidding for the "Rookie of the Year" award at the ripe old age of 32, Andrews rose to his greatest heights in the final period after the Rocks had come from behind an early Adanac lead of 6 to 0 to take the initiative in the third stanza.

SLOW START

The 4,500 fans who came to honor the Irish had to wait a long, long time before their favorites responded to the urging. Right off the bat there was a half an hour of gift giving that was enjoyed only by the winners. Then followed a 20-minute benefit performance by the Adanacs who decided it was their night to howl and did so by jumping into a six-goal lead at the five-minute mark of the second period.

John McMillan, who is not noted for his scoring feats, suddenly decided that if he could get a goal the Rocks would become slightly annoyed and turn on the visitors from across the straits. This McMillan did with his only shot of the game. Bob Bremner offset McMillan's goal to restore Adanacs' six-goal edge but the Rocks had caught the spirit of things and were on their way.

Art Green and Edwin Popham banged a couple of shots past Gordy Pogue to give the crowd its first real chance to holler. Then with Jack Proctor, a second-rate villain to Indians' Bill Dickinson, got a two-minute penalty. Green and Popham repeated the chore. Another by Ed Popham before the stanza ended saw the Shamrocks only one goal down at the intermission at 7 to 6.

TIES SCORE

After Green had scored his third goal to tie the score for the first time in the game at 1:37 of the third canto, Adanacs rapped in two quick markers on shots by Reo Jerome and Bremner to again go ahead.

But by this time the hand writing was on the wall and with Duff McGaghey taking the strain the Rocks poured five goals by the three-quarter mark, the locals coasted in from there.

Before nominations for the rookie award close, some consideration should be given to a couple of other wearers of the green.

Shirley May Plans Channel Attempt

DOVER, Eng. (UP)—Shirley May France of Somerset, Mass., said today that she hoped to try to swim the English Channel on or before Aug. 9.

She planned to swim half way across today but rough weather forced her to postpone the attempt.

Roy Sutter of Denison, Tex., also expects to try a Channel crossing about Aug. 9.

Ted Temme, coach of the newspaper Daily Mail's Channel swimming team, said his 29 entries would take off from Cap Gris Nez for the English coast on Aug. 22.

Key McNamee Lifts Women's Title At Kelowna Affair

KELOWNA (BUP)—Despite a tremendous showing by California swimmers, Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club captured three of four grand aggregate titles at the 44th annual Kelowna Regatta which ended Wednesday.

Coach Percy Norman saw Key McNamee win the Hiram Walker Cup for senior women; her brother Gerry won the Percy Norman Cup for junior boys, and Daphne Molsted took the Percy Norman Cup for junior girls.

The Blackwell Cup for the senior men's aggregate championship went to powerful Jim Jones of the California Swimming Club of Los Angeles.

With three individual aggregate wins, Vancouver Athletic Swimming Club easily won team honors at the regatta, scoring 102 points. Los Angeles was second with 64 points, Ocean Falls and San Francisco were tied for third place with 62.5 points.

Key McNamee scored 62 points in winning the 150 yards medley, placing second in the half-mile and 50-yard freestyle and finishing third in the 200-yard freestyle.

The Canadian record for the 200 yards backstroke event was broken by 16-year-old Larry Heim of Los Angeles. Heim slashed the four laps in 23.1 seconds to top nine-tenths off the former Canadian record set in 1938 by Bill Kery of Windsor, Ont.

Colts In Fourth Cricket Victory

Colts scored their fourth straight mid-week cricket win over Beacon Hill Wednesday at Beacon Hill Park, 123 to 76.

Jim Colquhoun and Moss between them scored 87 runs, enough to assure Colts of the win. Colquhoun hit up 56 and Moss 31. Ted Oakman took four Beacon Hill wickets for 21 runs. Fifth match in the series will take place next Wednesday on the same grounds.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Shadows were moving across Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon as a handful of officials of the annual Highland Games huddled around the pole vault pit to witness a courageous comeback by a Victoria athlete. In the excitement of the dancing and track events, the victory marked up by the individual was barely noted.

It was back in 1948 that Don Wilson broke a vertebrae in a fall from the high diving board at the Crystal Garden during participation in a comedy act. He was told that he would never pole vault again.

He Was Entitled To Plaudits

Saturday Wilson came back. His doctors had failed to reckon with the courage and determination of this athlete. Long hours of exercises, after getting out of his cast, built up the soft muscles. Slowly he began vaulting again at low heights until Saturday when he made his return to active competition. It is too bad that Wilson's victory did not receive the merited plaudits of the multitude. It is also remarkable that in winning the vault Saturday, Wilson cleared 11 feet 10 inches, the best performance of his career.

Would Be Game's Death Knell

Any move to change the lacrosse season from summer to winter would prove disastrous to the sport. The lacrosse game just couldn't survive the competition of hockey. In making the suggestion, Oscar Swanson of New Westminster remarks: "Sure, we would have to buck hockey, but basketball seems to be doing all right."

Let me inform Mr. Swanson that basketball in Victoria and Vancouver went through one of its toughest seasons last winter. Senior men's games in both cities failed to draw peanuts and the situation here became so bad that eagles were hard-pressed to get through the season financially. Conditions were little better on the mainland. If lacrosse entered the winter sports picture, it would just be sounding its own death knell.

Suggestion by the morning opposition that one of the intercity franchises be moved to Nanaimo bears little merit. The Coal City would have to import 90 per cent of its playing material. At the best, Nanaimo could come up with possibly four players capable of holding their own in intercity competition. A team of imports would fail to attract customers. One of the big secrets of the Shamrocks' success at the turnstiles is the fact that the team is composed of Victoria boys. Fans know the players and appreciate the fine showing they have made in their first year in intercity play. It is true intercity competition.

Baseball No Change—Gonzales

Mike Gonzales agrees with Connie Mack that it is the pitching, not the livelier ball. "Baseball, she no change, she same alla time," says the old catcher who coached the St. Louis Cardinals for so long and who since 1946 has owned the Havana Reds of the Cuban Winter League.

"But heeter, she much bettar. Young, strong, beeg boys. Mucho power. Heet boll mile. Pow! There she go! Home rung!"

"But peetchair—she not so good. Mike know. Too many base on ball."

"Bad peetch, good heet, that's eet all over in baseball today."

Gonzales points out that the rather infrequent low-hit game shows that the lively pitcher still takes much of the bounce out of the ball.

Well Done, Son

Coach Arnold Ferguson of the Shamrocks brought his father down from Parkville for last night's Intercity Lacrosse League game with the New Westminster Adanacs and dad was quite proud of his son as the Rocks came from behind to whip the yellowjackets. It was Mr. Ferguson's first game of the season. He'll be a guest of the club at tonight's clash against the Salmonbellies at New Westminster.

Jimmy Chan Wins Smart Mound Duel

Jimmy Chan of Chinese Students and Brian Sluggett of Brentwood Aces hooked up in a keen pitching duel last night at Central Park and Sluggett lost the softball game in the first inning on an unearned run. Score was 1 to 0.

Don Robinson led off in the top of the first inning and drew a walk. He went to the middle sack on a wild pitch and came home when Ronnie Benn miscued.

Toy Marr's smash down the right field line. The win moved the Students closer to second place in the standings of the senior A division.

FAST GAME

Zone playoffs have been given a one night's rest, and with the pressure off, the two teams turned in a fast performance. The game consumed only 1 hour and 15 minutes as the two pitchers kept pouring the ball in.

The teams split four hits, with Jimmy John and Jimmy Chan picking up singles for the Students, and brothers Willie and Ronnie Benn sharing the honors for the Aces. Chan held the Aces hitless for seven innings, and in six of them it was three up and three down. He retired 16 batters in succession, and John Fumiston was the only Aces runner to reach first base.

Tomorrow night Douglas Tire and Bluebird Cabs play the first game of the finals in the zone playoffs. The series is a best-two-out-of-three set, and the winner will represent the Island in the coast finals to be played in Vancouver starting Aug. 11.

Douglas Tire will be favorites to take the playoffs as they can call on a strong hurling staff. Cabbies on the other hand will have to rely on Charlie McKay the boy who carried them through the semi-finals with B.C. Forest Products.

Citation Will Make Another Racing Start

Racing's Greatest Winner Recovers From Injured Leg

CHICAGO (AP)—Citation, sidelined for several weeks with an ankle injury, is back in training at Washington Park and will race again, his trainer said today.

The world's leading money-winner, with $938,630, missed last week's $75,000 Arlington Handicap. He has not raced since losing to Noor at Golden Gate, Calif., June 24.

Ben Jones, who with his son, Jimmy, trains the five-year-old thoroughbred, said he has had Citation walked under a saddle with weight up and that he appears "sound."

Citation was withdrawn from the Arlington Handicap with what was diagnosed as a filled left ankle. It was feared he might not be able to race again.

Jones said he couldn't tell yet whether Citation will be ready for the $50,000 Washington Park Handicap Sept. 2.

STRODE MAY WRESTLE

CALGARY (CP)—Woody Strode, the sky-scraping end who played a vital part in Calgary Stampede's winning the Grey Cup in 1948, may not line up with the cowboys during the 1950 football season, club president Tom Brook indicated today.

Brook, said Strode, a 210-pound negro with a magnificent physique, is considering an "attractive wrestling offer" in Los Angeles.

Hedgecock Ends Victoria Club's Road Loss Streak

Veteran Jim Hedgecock, who at one time was so close to the trading block that the axe had been sharpened for the fatal blow, last night gave the Athletics their first win in nine games away from home by stopping Tri-City in a relief role, 8 to 6.

The portside hurler entered the game in the second inning after Ron Smith had been shelled from the hill. Although in trouble for the next two innings, Hedgecock survived and went on to blank the Braves the final five frames. It was his ninth win.

The game wasn't decided until the sixth, when Al Roaming singled, advanced to third on Bob McGuire's one bagger and scored on another single by Junior Krug. The A's added an insurance marker in the seventh.

Lou McCullum started for the Braves but was hit hard in the early going as the A's scored two in the first, three in the third and a singleton in the fourth.

Tri-City matched the A's during the opening innings with a brace in the first, single tallies in the second and third and two in the fourth, but after that Hedgecock became the master.

Tigers kept pace with one another in their first-place battle. The Bears whipped Spokane Indians, 13 to 8, as shortstop Dave Melton had a perfect night with three singles, a double and a triple. Tacoma edged Salem, 4 to 3. Ron Gifford singled home the winning run in the ninth.

Vancouver Capilanos knocked Wenatchee a further game back of the leaders by scoring three runs in the second and third innings and then hanging on to nip the Chiefs, 3 to 2.

Short scores follow:

Yakima 13 19 1
Spokane 8 13 7
Larner and Tiesler; Bishop, Curran (6), Verste (7), Ross (9) and Ross, Weather-wax (9).
Vancouver 3 2 4
Salem 2 3 1
Tacoma 2 2 2
McGuire, Costello (2) and Beard; Carter, Anderson (8) and Shasta.

PROPT TONIGHT
Tonight the A's close out their three-game set with Tri-City with Jim Propst slated to get the call for the club. Following tonight's game, the A's face three double-headers with Salem Senators before returning home against Tri-City on Monday.

Harvest Near, Prepare For Storage Of Crops

By JACK G. BEASTALL

August is a good month in which to do some work in preparation for harvesting.

Some gardeners are fortunate in having special rooms for the storage of crops. Some depend on bins in the corner of the basement, and others just use sacks, apple boxes, and trays.

Undoubtedly, a proper storage room is a great asset, and when time and effort have been put into producing good crops, they are worth storage conditions which will keep them in the best possible state over the greatest period of time.

An excellent bulletin is circulated by the Experimental Farms Service which gives some good suggestions on building a storage room, also listing the correct temperatures for the storage of various crops.

HELPFUL BULLETIN

It is Publication 743, (Farmers' Bulletin 113), Sept. 1942, and titled "Construction and Operation of a Home Storage for Fruits and Vegetables," by W. R. Phillips. It may be obtained free of charge by writing the superintendent, Dominion Experimental

No Indication When Alberta Gas To Be Exported

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said here Wednesday there is no indication as to when natural gas from his province will be exported to the Pacific northwest.

In the city for only an hour and a half after attending the Pacific Coast Gas Association convention in Seattle, Mr. Manning said he had made no statement in an address to the convention Tuesday regarding export "before long" as some reports had claimed.

The slender head of the government of Canada's booming oil province pointed out hearings are scheduled by five companies before the Alberta-Natural Gas and Conservation Board up to December, and there "certainly could be no decision reached this year."

Accompanied by his wife, he proceeded to Vancouver on the afternoon steamer, and will continue to Edmonton tonight.

There are approximately 365 known species of eucalypt in Australia, ranging in size from 10 to 300 feet high.

'Peace' March In New York Noisy Brawl

NEW YORK (AP) — Leftist "peace" marchers—banned from heavily-guarded Union Square—defiantly clashed with police Wednesday in a tense, noisy brawl.

An estimated 2,000 marchers formed ranks amid thousands of home-going workers at the height of the rush hour.

"We want peace—open up the square," they cried.

A 1,000-man police detail—stationed like an army around the square—spent an hour breaking up the demonstration.

Fists flew at times and several injuries were reported. At least one window was smashed.

Thirteen of the marchers were arrested, most of them charged with disorderly conduct or assault.

The sudden flare-up threw the vast rush-hour crowd into a turmoil. Most of them were not demonstrators but ordinary citizens on their way home.

The New York Labor Conference for Peace originally scheduled the "peace rally" to protest the atom bomb and to call for mediation in Korea. But police refused them a permit.

A State Supreme Court justice earlier in the day had refused to remove the police ban. The demonstrators then announced they would rally anyway.

The conference describes itself as made up of union and other groups interested in peace.

Prison For Hoarders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prison sentences and $10,000 fines for hoarders and black marketers were voted by the Senate banking committee Wednesday.

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier announced Wednesday he has ordered a "formal investigation" into the July 12 grounding of the ocean liner Franconia.

The vessel, carrying 780 passengers ran aground on the Island of Orleans as she was leaving Quebec harbor.

Mr. Justice Arthur Ives Smith of the Quebec Superior Court will head the investigation commission.

Labor Supports Dockyard Firemen

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council is behind firefighters at H.M.C. Dockyard who are seeking improved pay and work conditions.

Council members Wednesday night authorized Percy Rayment, Council secretary, to prepare a brief on behalf of the dockyard firemen, stressing differences between dockyard pay and hours of work compared with pay and hours of work for municipal firemen in the Greater Victoria area.

Prepare Controls

International Girls' Band Presents Striking Appearance

When Arthur R. Thompson of Sioux Falls, N. Dakota, conceived the idea of the Canadian-American School Girls' Band he accepted the offer of the Lions Club of Brandon, Manitoba, to sponsor the project.

Applications for membership in the band came from all of the 48 states in the U.S. and from five Canadian provinces. More than 690 girls sent in applications. Auditions were held from 15-minute performances on wire, tape or record discs. From these auditions, all adjudicated by Mr. Thompson, 80 girls were selected.

The State of Illinois topped all states by furnishing 52 applications for band membership. Mr. Thompson revealed, Michigan ran a close second with 44. Texas—some 2,000 miles away, furnished 30 applications, New York 25, Pennsylvania 34, and Massachusetts 16. Four provinces of Canada are represented in the present personnel, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Ontario. Alberta girls also applied.

"It was interesting to note the remarkable balance of instrumentation maintained as the applications came in," Mr. Thompson said. "As expected, clarinets were in the lead, with 158. The more unusual instruments were also well represented. Sixteen bassoon players competed for three available places and 34 oboe players for the three oboe chairs.

Fourteen-year-old Venetia Tait of Victoria, will be heard with the band when it makes its appearance here Friday evening at 8 in the new Arena.

The Victoria appearance is sponsored by the Victoria Lions Club. Proceeds will be donated to the Manitoba Flood Relief and Lions Club Charities.

Cagney Polishing Up For Ballet Number In New Movie

By GLORIA YARBOROUGH
HOLLYWOOD. (AP) — Now I've heard everything. Cagney will do a ballet number in "The West Point Story."

You wouldn't recognize Jimmy these days, if your mental image has him talking tough and toting a rod. He is acting very un-Cagneyish.

He likes the change of character, but "it's kinda hard on the old man." He's 46 but looks younger.

Cagney is a part-time hooper. Press agents build him up as a threat to Astaire and Gene Kelly, but that sort of stuff actually embarrasses the guy. He's just a so-so dancer.

VERSATILE JIMMY

Versatility: what keeps actors alive. After two pictures in which he played psychological killers, Jimmy felt it was time for a change. In addition to the ballet, he does a routine that has all the earmarks of a Danny Kaye specialty. Yesterday Cagney was dressed in over-size clothing, with medals dangling fore and aft. He plays a six-star general in one scene and he also does a scene in French, but doesn't understand a word he says. Just learned it parrot-fashion.

When Ted Briskin made up with his wife Betty Hutton and called off the divorce, he said: "It isn't good for married people to be constantly in each other's company. When we both realized that, we readily agreed that it was the solution to our difficulties."

Briskin will live in Chicago, he says, and Betty will live here.

Canada-U.S. Speed Supplies For Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—Integration of Canadian industry with that of the United States for the production of tanks, guns, ships, aircraft and other war goods in the event of a "major conflict" will be discussed with the United States next week, the government's industrial defence organization announced today.

A decision on integration policy between the two countries is expected to tap the flow of millions of dollars' worth of U.S. war material orders into Canada.

The discussions will take place during the one-day meeting here Aug. 8 of the Joint United States-Canada Industrial Mobilization Planning Committee.

The industrial defence officials said the meeting, important because of the outbreak of Communist aggression in Korea, also will discuss matters which will affect Canadian industry in time of total war.

1. Joint Canada-U.S. action on requirements, priorities, allocations and export controls.

2. The change in approach adopted by the military production and supply board of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

DIRECT APPROACH

This change in approach, said officials, means the shelving of any long-range, overall war equipment planning for North Atlantic nations and the more realistic, direct approach to filling the urgent requirements first.

Saanichton Man Wins Top Prizes At Gladioli Show

Sam Arrowsmith of the Experimental Station, Saanichton, was top prizewinner at the fourth annual gladioli show at the Crystal Garden, which opened Wednesday and will continue until 9 tonight, when flowers will be auctioned in aid of the Queen Alexandra Soldiers' Home.

Mr. Arrowsmith won the Island Gladioli Trophy for being grand champion with his entry Rialgar, and the Canadian Gladioli Society silver medal as reserve champion with his exhibit Miss Dainty. He also took the Canadian Gladioli Society bronze medal for Rialgar.

Mrs. C. Lyons, 2838 Murray Drive, won the President's Cup for her exhibit Greta Garbo, in the women's division. The exhibit also won the George Heath Trophy in the novice class. Mrs. B. A. STARTING NEXT YEAR ON MENTAL HOME

Plans For Two 250-Bed Units Ready Soon, Total Of 2,500 In 10-Year Program

A start in construction of a 2,500-bed hospital here for ever-increasing numbers of mentally-ill persons is looked for early next year.

The provincial secretary's department expects to have plans for two 250-bed units of the proposed institution ready for submission to the provincial cabinet within three months.

The hospital is to be built on 300 acres of property including and adjoining to the northwest the grounds of the Wilkinson Road Hospital for the criminally insane at Colquitz.

Hope of the provincial secretary's department is to complete the two 250-bed units within 18 months to two years after construction is started, and to add one 250-bed unit each year until the 2,500 maximum is reached.

This would make a 10-year program for the Colquitz Hospital which will be a "sister" institution to Essondale on the mainland where more than 4,000 patients are being cared for in crowded facilities.

STUDYING LOCATIONS

The 300-acre site was inspected last week by provincial officials seeking the best locations for the various buildings of the hospital.

Contour maps of the area have been completed and aerial pictures have been taken.

The drawing of plans for the initial 250-bed units, laundry, stores building and buildings for many other services connected with such an institution now is in the hands of government architects.

Farmers Fighting Land School Tax

COBBLE HILL—Directors of Shawinigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute and the executive committee of the South Cowichan Taxpayers' Association have put their stamps of approval on a campaign of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture against school tax on land and improvements.

Plan of the farmers' group is to distribute a questionnaire. It is felt the answers will show the present school tax is unjust in that the burden is not distributed fairly.

The answers will be sent members of the Legislature and the provincial cabinet.

Communities Responsible For Defence

Guide Awaited From Ottawa

Individual communities will be directly responsible for carrying out civilian defence plans to be formulated for B.C., it was indicated today.

A special committee of provincial government officials will prepare an organization blueprint that could be put into operation in the event of an attack.

It will be up to the various districts to make the plan work, though.

The provincial committee plans its first meeting Aug. 15 or 16 since attending the recent "critique" on A-bomb attack in Seattle.

By that time a guidance plan for civilian protection may have been received from Gen. F. F. Worthington, civilian defence coordinator at Ottawa.

Gen. Worthington is attending a special course on civilian defence in England and is expected to return to Canada soon.

Campbell River Wants Bigger School

CAMPBELL RIVER—Residents of Sayward district are protesting the building of a one-room school there. They say a larger school should be provided.

Landowner Upheld On Refusal Of Road Allowance

Saanich municipality lost its case in Supreme Court Wednesday for an order compelling a landowner to set aside a road allowance before subdividing a portion of his property.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court ruled in favor of Geoffrey Vantreight, senior and junior, seeking to subdivide 9.2 acres fronting on Haro Strait, north of Martinville Road.

The municipality notified the Vantreights that before it would approve the subdivision, they would have to set aside a road allowance. The Vantreights appealed to the court.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane felt the municipality was not justified in requesting a road allowance.

In June, a total of 175 permits were issued by the building inspector for construction worth $1,058,226. This figure included a permit for the addition to St. Joseph's Hospital, which is costing $500,000 and permits for 12 new homes worth $80,000.

The week of Aug. 14 will be spent judging finalists on Vancouver Island and the Gulf coast.

Lone Fisherman Saved In Strait As Boat Capsizes

A Steveston fisherman, Lee Soong Tim, was rescued in the Georgia Strait today when his gillnetter capsized and sank.

Lee was saved by Phillip Thomas, a Nanaimo fisherman who happened to be passing at the time.

Meanwhile, two other fishermen, identified only as Nutch and Noakes, were reported to be back on the mainland after spending Tuesday night aboard the Sandheads lightship off the mouth of the Fraser River.

They tied up alongside the lightship after encountering trouble. During the night, their gillnetter sank.

They were taken ashore by a passing fishboat.

Burnside Road Hinted As New Highway Route From Victoria

$1,000,000 Stretch May Skirt Thetis, Langford Lakes To Goldstream Park

There was a hint in government circles today the new route of the Island Highway from Victoria will follow Burnside Road, cut behind Thetis Lake and enter the existing highway at Goldstream Park.

Public works officials have little to say on the new road, fearing speculative buying of property which might increase the cost of obtaining the necessary right-of-way.

But there were indications within the department the highway will start from Douglas Street, carry along Burnside Road, cut through the forest land north of Thetis Lake and take a scenic path through the lower section of the Highlands district to Goldstream.

MISSES DANGEROUS HILL

This route would eliminate a dangerous hill where the present highway clings to a rocky, curved bluff in Goldstream Park. It would also cut off many winding sections of the highway including the stretch through the populated Langford Lake area.

More important, though, would be the elimination of the four to six-mile narrow stretches of the highway where many accidents, several of them fatal, have occurred in recent years.

TO COST $1,000,000

The new highway outlet is expected to be about 11 miles in length and construction will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, half of which the national government will pay since the Island Highway has been designated part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Tenders for construction of the outlet are expected to be called this fall after the federal government has approved plans.

Details of the route will not be made known until the bids are called for.

Dock Hook-up To City 'Phone System

For the first time in about 15 years, ships berthing at the Canadian National's Ogden Point Pier A can have telephone lines connected directly aboard.

When the dock was renovated recently, new wires were put in. Wednesday, the first ship to use the new facilities was the Donaidson Line freighter Cape Ortel.

Reports indicate the ship, which is still taking on lumber for the United Kingdom, was making full use of the phone.

Ships docking at the east end of the north and south sides and at the west end of the south side of Pier A can hook up to the city telephone system.

The innovation is expected to do much to relieve the heavy load of calls on the lone instrument in the wharf office.

Garden Judges Here Week Of Aug. 14

The week of Aug. 14 will be spent judging finalists on Vancouver Island and the Gulf coast.

GUN LURKS IN RAG PILE

You never know what will turn up in old discarded overcoats these days.

A revolver and shells were found in an overcoat pocket which was being put through a shredder at Sidney Roofing Co. plant today.

The overcoat was part of a shipment of rags received from Alaska Junk Co., Seattle, Wash. The gun and shells were turned over to police.

Confirm Local Case Of Polio

Laboratory tests have confirmed doctors' suspicions that an 11-year-old city boy has contracted polio.

Doctors who examined the boy earlier in the week diagnosed his case as polio and had him hospitalized for observation. Laboratory tests made today show the doctors' diagnosis to be correct.

Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer for Victoria and Esquimalt, reiterated today that there is no reason for panic by the general public over the single outbreak. He said Victoria was particularly free of polio in comparison with cities of equal size elsewhere on the continent.

The case is the city's first this year.

Victoria Eagles To Attend Convention

Junior Past Worthy President of the Victoria Aerie No. 12 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Frederick O. Rockett, 605 Kelvin Street, will represent the local lodge at the Grand Aerie convention at Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 10 to 13.

B.C. provincial secretary George Goodenough, also of Victoria, will accompany Mr. Rockett. Mr. Goodenough is also special representative of the Grand Aerie membership department.

$66,000 B.C.E. Bus Depot For Garbally Road Site

A receiving depot for inbound buses, quarters for drivers reporting on duty, offices for semi-administration staff, and headquarters for line department, will be incorporated into a new two-story building which the B.C. Electric will build on its Garbally Road property.

Contract of $66,487 for its construction was awarded by that company today to Robinson & Luney, Victoria. It is planned to have the new building in use by late fall.

The structure will be of frame and stucco construction with Roman tile brick facade. With two stories, it will provide approximately 10,000 additional feet of floor space.

A feature of the new building will be a modern dispatch centre, where buses will report coming in and going out from their runs.

No Struggling With Cubes
Ice Trays Easy To Operate

By PENNY SAVER

Member the days when fridges made their debut, and how excited the little housewife would get if you asked to see the ice-making section of the machine? She'd fairly bubble over with enthusiasm in fact and would have the fridge's innards displayed on the table before you could take a firm grip on the back door knob, to make a quick exit. Out would come the ice tray, first off. In those days ice cubes were made just as beautifully as now but to get the little beggars out of their compartments was the ordeal.

A BLESSED EVENT FOR SMART SHOPPERS

I remember watching a friend of mine try to extract a single cube from the jaws of a tray that made tooth-pulling look like kid's stuff. Smiling all the while... for my benefit... she fugged, soaked the tray, nonchalantly smacked it against a metal portion of the sink before succeeding in loosening the confounded things. The ice cube in question bounced out but then the remaining cubes... and there were enough of them to store a moose for the winter... I looked very soppy after their warm water treatment and had to be thrown out... this is not so now!

Along with the new trays, which have introduced a lever system of popping the icy morsels out of their shells, there is a new aluminum tray with unbreakable plastic drain-edge cups. You can use one cup without wasting a trayful as they are individually set in the tray. Simple, is the word for the method used in freeing the ice from its cup. Merely pick up the little cup, press thumbs on the centre bottom piece and out it comes. To use for individual salads and desserts the 12 plastic cups and tray will cost you $1.45.

Pearl buttons for your blouse or dress with matching links. Haven't seen the likes of them in these parts for quite some time. On the 35-cent card you'll find five buttons and two sets of links.

For the traveler, and equally useful to the housewife, are the comb and brush cleaners combined on one handle. On one side there is a thick toothed two-inch comb to pick up every hair in a brush, and on the other side a single row of long black bristles to make your comb bright and shiny. The sum of 50 cents is what you'll pay and the set is yours.

Attention! All young buckaroos, that doer of good on the range, Hopalong Cassidy, by name, is pictured with his horse on bars of soap. Mom, you might get your little "injun" closer to the washroom with a cake of that cowboy soap sitting cozily on the soap dish. The pictures won't rub off the soap after the first using but will stay on through the life of the bar. Four bars of pure castile soap in a set for 89 cents. Yahoo!

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYERS ELDERD

Middle children face real emotional problems. They are neither the youngest nor the oldest, both of whom have preferential positions in the family. In their need to make themselves noticeable and to give themselves some distinction, they may choose to act in ways which are undesirable. If the other children are smart, the middle child may pretend dullness. If they are talented, this child becomes a do-nothing. If the other children are well, the middle child feigns illness. The behavior is calculated to draw the family eye, a necessity which their developing egos demand.

Mrs. L. V. E. writes, "There must be many middle children who could be made to feel important if parents would make the effort. What we did was a very small thing but it elated our five-year-old middle child.

"The others are girls, but we made the puppy of the family the boy's own. Each night he gets out the dog food, fills the dog's plate and this seems to mean so much to him."

Well-Chosen
Clothes Hide
Figure Faults

Mid-summer sales are with us again. They can mean joy or disaster.

For some women the mere idea that a garment has been reduced in price, is enough for her to go right ahead and buy it.

But the well-dressed woman thinks twice, even thrice before she opens her pocketbook.

If she hasn't a perfect figure, there are specific things she will look for before she makes her purchase.

For instance, if she is a little on the top-heavy side, she will choose a dress which introduces fullness below the waist. A skirt that bells out from the hemline will give her a dress that balances fullness at the top of her figure. So will a dress with a pleated pleum or gathered tunic.

Another fashion which helps to minimize the top-heavy figure is the tunic-top dress—a full tunic stiffened by removable buckram bulks out width below the waist to balance the curves above it.

If large hips are the problem which needs the most consideration, the first rule needs to be applied in reverse. Here the need is to find fullness in dresses that will build out the bosom. Good in this respect are tucked bodices with stitching that stops just short of the bust.

Best illusory aid for slimming a neck is a V-neckline.

If a dress is collared, the collar should lie flat. Arms will look less long in dresses with puffed sleeves.

Contrasting cuffs are still another foreshortening aid for long arms. If the size of hands is to be minimized puffed sleeves should be wrist length. Cuffs on these should turn up.

Help in belittling a waistline comes from dresses with bulkless waistlines; from zippers that close up at front or back; from a discreet bit of shoulder padding that builds out the figure at top.

Members of the Sketch Club of Island Arts and Crafts Society were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Casson at their home on Seaview Road, Ten Mile Point, where sketches were made and displayed at the tea hour. Among those present were Mesdames S. P. Hano, E. Featherstone, W. Press, C. Addison, Rice Jones and Misses Maude Lettice and Maude Bruce.

This stiffened tunic top dress bulks out width across hips to balance top-heavy figure.

Dear Miss Dix: I am happily married to a splendid man, or I would be happily married if it were not for my jealousy of his first wife. I am obsessed by the feeling that perhaps he does not love me as much as he loves her, and when he talks about her I get so greeneyed that I am fairly crazy and sometimes refuse to talk to him for days. Do you think I am foolish in being jealous over his dead wife?—Mrs. M. K.

Answer: I think that any woman who has no rival nearer than the cemetery should be down on her knees thanking Heaven for her luck. Instead of working herself up into a jealous frenzy. It is the live siren's wife has cause to worry over, not the dead ones.

No doubt your husband did love his first wife. Probably his love for her was more romantic, more filled with dreams than his love for you, because it was the love of his youth. Scottish Lass Starts New Life In Canadian City

REGINA (CP)—Margaret Millar, Scottish physiotherapist, likes to start from scratch.

That's why she came from the Shetland Islands to develop in Regina a rehabilitation clinic for people suffering from arthritis and rheumatism.

Glasgow-trained, Miss Millar went to the Shetlands shortly after the Second World War to set up a clinic. When she left, it was running smoothly with three physiotherapists, a radiologist, a receptionist and an orthopaedic splint-maker.

After "starting from scratch" and building up the clinic, Miss Millar said, an ordinary routine job did not appeal to her.

"So I decided to try a new country."

A few weeks ago she arrived in Regina to work with the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. "One thing I like about Canada," she said with a chuckle behind her soft Scottish burr, "is that you can marry and keep right on with your job. They don't do much of that in the old country."

Miss Lorraine Johnson who will be married Saturday night was honored when Miss Margaret Barracough entertained at a linen shower at 1728 Davis Street. Decorative motif was carried out in pink and white with a low crystal bowl containing pink and white carnations centring the table from which a buffet supper was served.

White candles in crystal holders flanked the centerpiece. A corsage bouquet of pink roses and swainsons was presented the bride-elect while her mother, Mrs. J. S. Johnson, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. J. G. Van Syke, received pink carnations and mauve sweet-peas on corsage. Mrs. K. Sware, grandmother of the guest of honor, received a corsage bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. G. Davey poured tea. Gifts were contained in a bandbox decorated in pink and white. There were 32 invited guests.

Church Service To Feature Play

The scene is laid in the home of Martha and Mary in Bethany, three years after Pentecost.

A 15-minute song period of favorite hymns and a "cornet solo," "The Stranger of Galilee," by Jack Smith, festival winner, will also be features of the service.

Those taking part in the presentation are: Martha, Mrs. D. E. Daek; Mary, Mrs. R. G. Phillips; Woman of the Streets, Mrs. P. J. Krahn; Mark, Mr. W. R. Livezey; prologue, Miss Lissel Layritz; readers, Misses Marian Rainer, Frances Boon and Florence Scrimshaw.

Children's Summer Sessions Conclude With Special Fete

Seventh summer session of the Children's Garden Library concluded last week-end with a special program including a lively parade, singing games, action songs, dramatization of stories and other activities participated in by 200 children between the ages of three and eight.

Leaders were presented with corsage bouquets and tiny sterling "C" for citizenship pins, following which the entire group of children, parents and friends, moved to the "Stones Under the Oaks" platform, where Miss May Colebrook, the garden library's favorite "teller of tales," gave a presentation of the worship story for the day.

Children were then treated to ice cream and visitors were served tea by the Mothers' Group.

Mrs. W. W. McGill, director, prepared the closing program. The garden library staff, all volunteers, were Mrs. Clifford Hilton, assistant director and song leader; Mesdames May

Davies, A. C. Phillips, Mary Bleakeley, Muriel Forsythe, J. Lord, Dorothy McFarland, Ida Leeson, Florence Jack, Marguerite Johnston, Misses Trudie and Bobbie McGill, Marie and Ruth Allen, Martha McCarter and Mrs. Harold Falls, Prince Rupert. Mrs. H. A. DEFEAT IN U.N.Vote Against Malik
Coming In Council

LAKE SUCCESS (BUP)—The United Nations Security Council neared the end of a three-day propaganda-laden procedural wrangle today with Russia headed for certain diplomatic defeat in the second major east-west test of the week.

Chief Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik, who broke Russia's boycott by returning to the Security Council Tuesday, opened the council's meeting shortly after 3 p.m. He is council president for August.

Despite Malik's reappearance in the council, Russia indicated she has no intention of assuming her duties in the 30 odd other U.N. organs.

The United States and Britain told Russia bluntly Wednesday that if the Kremlin has any genuine plan for peace in Korea, now is the time to bring it forward. Malik may respond to the verbal pounding he has taken from the west before he orders a vote later today on the agenda issue which is the subject of the council's debate.

That issue is whether the council should give its attention first to the question of seating Communist China or the problem of bringing peace to Korea. Malik submitted a provisional agenda which listed the two items in that order of priority. The U.S., with western backing, has insisted the agenda should remain the same as it has been for five weeks: "Complaint of aggression against the Republic of Korea." In addition, the U.S. demands that the council immediately consider a resolution condemning North Korea for its continued defiance of the U.N., and calling on all members to refrain from "assisting or encouraging" the North Korean authorities.

Loom For CanadaForecast Cabinet To Call Special
Session Of Parliament In Six Weeks

By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—The cabinet will call a special session of Parliament in six weeks to approve the sending of ground troops to Korea, an authoritative source said today.

Meeting to draw up a vast program of war preparedness, the spokesman said the cabinet was facing a world situation which has deteriorated into such seriousness that its threat cannot be ignored any longer.

He said an announcement of the plans may not be made until next Wednesday's cabinet meeting, when all ministers will be on hand.

The program, it is said, will lay down the blueprints for placing the nation on a full war economy.

It will include a complete panoply of wartime controls and a taxation program to finance measures that will dwarf last session's record peacetime defence appropriation of $425,000,000.

The timing of the calling of parliament is being governed by arrangements already entered into for holding the long-scheduled Dominion-provincial conference.

The central committee of attorneys-general of the provinces and the Dominion will meet Aug. 21. The full conference will meet after they have completed a draft of fiscal and constitutional proposals to be considered. It is expected the conference will be completed by mid-September. Parliament will convene immediately thereafter.

COULD BE ALTERED
This schedule could be altered by any sudden change for the worse in the world situation. Any further deterioration, cabinet sources say, would compel the cancellation of the Dominion-provincial conference—a step which the government is reluctant to take.

The sudden atmosphere of dramatic tension and suspense which swept over cabinet circles during the past week-end advertised to the capital that the meeting of the ministry was a big one.

But even if that clue had been missing, the course followed by the meeting would have told all close observers that grave matters were under discussion and extraordinary decisions being matured.

Another Plane
Flies To Tokyo

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Force headquarters today announced that another of the six North Star aircraft of 426 Squadron has taken off from McChord Field near Tacoma to join the trans-Pacific shuttle service bringing war supplies to Tokyo.

The take-off was believed to have been some time Wednesday night. Four of the aircraft already have made the trans-Pacific flight.

The aircraft was piloted by Wing Cmdr. C. H. Mussels of Montreal, squadron commander. An extra crew was taken aboard to be dropped off at a midway point to act as a relief crew.

U.S. FORCES
MOVING TO
SHOWDOWNNew Defence Line
Under Reds' Fire

TOKYO (Friday) (AP)—Strong American reinforcements rolled forward with tanks today for the showdown fight for South Korea, as the aggressive Communist invaders already had brought the new Nakdong River defence line under artillery fire.

A.P. correspondent Hal Boyle reported from the central front near Taegu Thursday night that swift-marching North Korean patrols reached the west banks of the Nakdong within an hour after U.S. and South Korean defenders had crossed to the east bank.

The Reds had pursued 20 miles on foot at remarkable speed. Shortly afterward they started shelling Hyonpung, a highway town on the east bank 14 miles southwest of Taegu. As the river meanders, they were at one place within seven miles of Taegu, but that key road-rail hub was quiet. Meanwhile, Allied troops, approaching for the first time the 10-division strength of the invaders, got set for a showdown fight.

Elements of two fresh U.S. divisions—the 1st Marines and the army's 2nd Infantry—joined three other American and five South Korean divisions along the shrinking front.

Front line predictions were the marines and 2nd Infantry troops would be in battle by nightfall. The lines stretched from the general south coast area of Chinju northward along the winding banks of the Nakdong River. The Allied troops had quietly withdrawn from former positions as much as 18 miles during a three-day period.
